E. S. Houghtaling, 78, Commits Suicide at Gilgoly Establishment, in Orange

IN CONVENIENCE to others was the ruling passion of E. S. Houghtaling, 78, of Orange, even to the door of death, and when he opened the door of the hereafter he cast himself directly into the arms of those most concerned with his burial.

These facts were brought out today at Orange, when the inquest into Houghtaling's suicide was held at the Gilgoly funeral parlors, Orange. Testimony was to the effect that Houghtaling went to the Gilgoly establishment last evening, rang the bell and, just as Sherman Gilgoly opened the door, he fell forward in death, a bullet having penetrated his temple. A revolver was found clutched in his hand, it was said.

Two notes were found upon his person, one of them addressed to his wife, Sarah, 295 North Orange street, Orange, and the other to his son's mother-in-law, Mrs. Nellie Young, residing on North Flower street, Santa Ana.

The contents of the letter to Mrs. Houghtaling were not revealed. In the letter to Mrs. Young, the dead man gave directions for his burial and for notification of relatives, including the son, C. W. Houghtaling, of San Francisco. The son at present is in Portland, Ore., but will arrive in time for the funeral services, Friday.

Illness was generally ascribed for the act. Houghtaling was said to have come to Orange 17 years ago from Hart, Mich. During the summer months, he used a tent across from the funeral establishment for sleeping quarters, in an effort, it was believed, to benefit his health.

FOR the more nationalistic Russia becomes, the better it can recognize the right of other nations to run their own affairs. The more capitalistic it becomes, even if much of it remains "state" capitalism, the better a capitalistic world can do business with it.

The mere fact that it is a political dictatorship need not interfere. We have always conceded the right of other peoples to live under a democratic rule, so long as they recognized our right to live under democratic rule. We dealt with the Czar on that basis, and we are now dealing with Turkey, Greece, Italy and Spain, all of which are dictatorships. We can do the same thing with Russia, so far as mere dictatorship is concerned. We can let the Russians alone, in their right to be dictators, so long as they let us alone in our right to be republican. And we can do business with their state-owned corporations, so long as they will do business on business principles.

THE policies of the Stalin faction look toward doing both of these things. The Zinoviev-Trotsky faction was an insurrection against them. Since it is a question of dictatorship either way, we may well welcome the victory of the constructive and practical dictatorship as against the theoretical and destructive one.

The Russian nation is one of the great peoples of the world. The Soviet form of government, just as a political system, is no worse than plenty of other forms that we have not thought of our business to interfere with. If the Russians want their industrial trusts owned by all the people, through state capitalism, instead of by part of the people, through individual stock holders, that is their concern. We can buy and sell with them, as we have always done, for instance, with State-owned railroads, in France or Germany. But we can not deal with an anti-national, anti-business overthrow of our institutions and those of other nations. Russia has, in these recent days, taken another long step away from being that sort of institution.

Jury Frees Man Of Hotel Murder

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—James S. Fox, alleged two-run gunman, was acquitted by a jury in superior court today of the murder of Harry Schwartz, notorious hijacker. Fox admitted he shot Schwartz to death in the lobby of the St. Regis hotel here, on August 4, but pleaded the killing was in self-defense.

When the verdict was returned, Fox's wife sobbed aloud and threw her arms around the gunman's neck.

Testimony that Schwartz fired first was introduced at the trial. The shooting was believed to have resulted from a feud between rival run running bands.

California Man Dies, Aged 103

SANTA ROSA, Calif., Oct. 27.—Death last night stole over James Wallace, 103, one of the oldest men in California. He spent his birthday in bed for the first time in more than a century, about two weeks ago.

INDUSTRIAL STRUGGLE SEEN WITH BOOST OF COAL PRICE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 27.—One of the greatest industrial struggles in the United States was forecast by observers as prices of bituminous coal soared to new high prices today. Important retail concerns raised their prices of coal delivered in front of the consumer's home to $9 a ton.

Simultaneously with this development, the Pittsburgh Coal company, largest bituminous operators in the world, announced a new wage scale, which runs higher than the union rate. This company started a lone fight with the union officials here a year ago and is now employing 3300 men on the open shop plan. It previously employed as high as 14,000 men.

The Lincoln Hill Gas Coal company, of Washington, Pa., also announced a higher wage scale, affecting about 500 men.

Missouri Quake Breaks Windows

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Oct. 27.—Earth shocks of slight intensity shook Poplar Bluff and the outlying region today, shattering windows in several downtown buildings. The shocks were of short duration and no heavy damage was reported.

Arizona Girl Witness For Evangelist

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—The condition of Aimee Semple McPherson when she reappeared suddenly in the Sonora desert, near Douglas, Ariz., five weeks after she disappeared from the beach at Ocean Park, was described in detail today by Miss Margaret Attaway, night nurse at the Calumet hospital, in Douglas.

Testifying at the evangelist's hearing on charges of perjury and conspiracy, Miss Attaway declared that Mrs. McPherson was on the verge of nervous prostration when brought to the hospital, that her wrists were bruised and that she had blisters on her feet.

"Mrs. McPherson came to us about 4 o'clock on the morning of June 23," said the nurse. "I saw red marks on her wrists, made apparently by a rope. There were blisters on her feet. When she relaxed, the muscles controlled by her nerves twitched incessantly."

Takes Thorns From Hands

Miss Attaway testified that she removed several thorns from the evangelist's hands.

Contradicting the testimony of state's witnesses, the nurse asserted that Mrs. McPherson was not wearing a wrist watch when she arrived at the hospital.

The witness admitted under cross-examination that the evangelist ate a hearty breakfast a few hours after her arrival at the hospital. She admitted also that she did not investigate the condition of the patient's lips and that she did not keep a hospital record of the case.

Mrs. Blanche Rice, adherent of the McPherson faith, followed Miss Attaway to the stand and testified shortly before the noon recess concerning the sorrow exhibited by Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of the evangelist, when it was first announced that her daughter had been drowned.

Both the evangelist and "Mother" Kennedy broke down and cried when Mrs. Rice gave her testimony. The witness also shed tears while she was testifying.

Lawyer in First Fight

Attorney S. S. Hahn, representing Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman, co-defendant and state's witness, had another near fist fight with the defense lawyer, W. I. Gilbert, during the testimony of Mrs. Elizabeth Frame, who preceded Miss Attaway on the stand.

The physical combat threatened when Hahn dangled a corset in front of the timid defense witness during cross-examination and shouted at her as follows:

"You have testified you saw Mrs. McPherson undress at your beach home many times. Did you ever see this corset on her?"

When Gilbert objected, Hahn said: "This is material. I want to show that there are only two stores in California where this corset can be found and that it wasn't purchased on the desert by 'Mr. Steve'."

Gilbert's face reddened and he threatened Mrs. Wiseman's attorney when the court intervened, and Hahn was forced to direct his questions along other lines.

Charge Tampering With Papers

Sensational charges that the Carmel grocery slips in the McPherson case had been maliciously tampered with to aid in proving conspiracy charges against the evangelist were made today by Defense Attorney W. I. Gilbert.

Gilbert charged that the grocery slips had been deliberately "doctored" to resemble the handwriting of Mrs. McPherson and make it appear that the evangelist was the woman who occupied a bungalow at Carmel with Kenneth G. Ormiston, fugitive radio operator.

The defense attorney declared he had summoned Leslie Swan, handwriting expert, to prove his accusation. "I have also called a number of photographers, who will prove, with the aid of photographic evidence, that the state is using tampered evidence in their efforts to prove the charges of conspiracy against Mrs. McPherson," Gilbert said.

Found In Trash Pile

The Carmel grocery slips were found by Deputy District Attorney Joe Ryan in a trash pile at the rear of the Carmel cottage, where the missing radio man admits he spent 10 days with a "Miss X." The

MIDWEST POLITICAL OUTLOOK FAILS TO ELATE DEMOCRATS

Only Chances of Bourbons Are in Oklahoma and Missouri, Belief

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Democrats seeking control of the next congress find little to be glated over in the midwestern region from the Canadian border to the gulf, except in Missouri and Oklahoma.

In these two states, impartial political observers give Democrats an even chance to gain two Republican senate seats and perhaps two seats in the house.

In other parts of this farm region—scene of the reported agricultural revolt during the last few years—there seems little likelihood of change. Of course, Republicans of the tendencies of Blaine, in Wisconsin, Nye, in North Dakota, and Brookhart, in Iowa, will not be welcome as friends by the eastern Republican group. But they are to be elected as Republicans and will be welcomed into the party fold in these times, when any Republican progressive vote is not to be thrown away.

G. O. P. Victory Expected

Republican senators are expected to be elected in Iowa, Kansas, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Wisconsin, with almost the same ease as Democratic senators in Alabama, Florida, Arkansas, Louisiana, North and South Carolina.

In all this region of the midwest and solid south there are at stake seven Republican and six Democratic senate seats, with 60 Republican and 90 Democratic house seats.

If Democrats should gain more than two senate and three or four house seats, it would be regarded as a political upheaval and as bitter only in Missouri and Oklahoma, but it is very bitter there. The situation has been outlined to political officials here as follows:

Situation in Missouri

Missouri.—Representative Harry Hawes, with the backing of the now popular Senator Jim Reed of Missouri, is fighting for the senate seat, to which George H. Williams, of St. Louis, was appointed last year. Both are Democrats and both are about the same sentiments upon the League of Nations and the World Court. The campaign has been largely a battle of personalities and inter-party issues. Reed's popularity has become so widespread throughout the state that his home folks now are booming him for the presidential nomination and his support of Hawes has given the Democrats a real chance to win. Fundamentally, the state is regarded as doubtful for either party having favored Democrats sometimes and Republicans at other times.

Oklahoma.—This state was formerly regarded as a member of the solid south, but now has two Republican senators, although the house delegation is Democratic, six to two. Senator Harrell, running for re-election, came in on the Republican landslide for President Harding, six years ago, and is having the fight of his life against the Democratic representative, Representative Thorne. Republicans here are none too enthusiastic over the possibilities. Little change is expected in the house delegation.

Register Will Radio Plays Of Big Game

Play by play returns of the U. S. C. Stanford football game, at the Los Angeles Coliseum, Saturday, will be given by radio by The Register through an arrangement made today with the Radio Den, W. B. Ashford, proprietor. The public address system will enable The Register and the Radio Den to give local football fans first and accurate details of the big contest. A chart, showing the position of the ball at all times, will be hung on the Third street side of The Register building.

YANKEE NURSE IS GUARD OVER QUEEN MARIE

American Woman Directs Royal Activities on Canadian Visit

(By United Press)

ABOARD QUEEN MARIE'S SPECIAL TRAIN IN CANADA. Oct. 27.—A prim but affable woman of erect bearing and professional directness is the only person in North America who can dictate to Queen Marie. She is Adeline Young, a nurse from Johns Hopkins, who has undertaken the responsibility of safeguarding Her Majesty's health.

It is perhaps the first time that a woman has held, officially or unofficially, the position of court physician. Members of the royal party, schooled in the belief of masculine superiority, have been somewhat upset by Miss Young's importance.

Every move of the queen is subject to Miss Young's approval. On several occasions, her prerogative has been exercised to keep Her Majesty indoors or within sheltered enclosures.

Queen Marie today will visit Montreal, her train arriving early for a 16-hour stop over. The train crossed the Canadian border yesterday morning. Officials of the New York Central turned the train over to the Canadian National railway officials. New York state troops were relieved at their posts by troops of the Royal Mounted Canadian police and American flags were replaced by the Union Jack.

The train arrived in Toronto with Prince Nicholas in the cab-dressed in immaculate blue serge. He had boarded the locomotive several miles below the city to satisfy his curiosity as to how the American engine operated. Before he stepped down, he had asked the engineer almost every conceivable question concerning railroading.

Queen Is Entertained

The party attended a meeting of the Women's Canadian club in the afternoon and was entertained at a dinner given at the government house by Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Henry Cockshutt.

Miss Young was appointed by Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, "under whose auspices the special train was arranged and who also is chairman of the board of directors of Johns Hopkins university."

She was selected by the faculty of the institution as being "the most valuable nurse in the institution."

Queenship Split On Recall of Queen

VIENNA, Oct. 27.—Recall of Queen Marie from her American visit, without scandal, it was understood here today, has been discussed during the last few days by leading members of the Rumanian government. Rumors were prevalent today of a split in the Rumanian cabinet regarding the advisability of taking advantage of some such pretext as illness to summon Her Majesty to return if the situation in the United States justifies.

Father and Son Saved from Chair

STATE PENITENTIARY, COLOMBIA, S. C., Oct. 27.—Saved from the electric chair by executive clemency, Alexander Pittman and his son, Holland, convicted murderers, were removed from the death house today to begin serving the rest of their lives behind prison walls. Father and son were to have been executed Friday noon for the murder of a prohibition officer during a raid.

HONOLULU, Oct. 27.—Residents of Hilo have reported seeing a halo over the crater of Mauna Loa and are predicting a renewed flow of lava. Mauna Loa was in violent eruption last spring, the lava flows destroying several small native settlements.

Indians of Many Regions Hold Celebration at Haskell Institute

(By United Press)

LAWRENCE, Kas., Oct. 27.—Reminiscent of the days, to some extent, when white-faced men rode over the plains of the Wakarusa, sounding the alarm of "the redskins are coming," the vanguard of a host of Indians, 5000 strong, gathered in Lawrence today.

It is homecoming at Haskell Institute, the first in the history of the school and the first Indian homecoming in the history of America. Tribes from the four winds started gathering here today, to participate in the celebration, culminating Saturday in the football game between the Haskell Indians and Bucknell college.

Saturday, Secretary of Interior Work, paleface chief of all the redmen, will officiate at the dedication of Haskell's new $200,000 stadium, built by voluntary subscription of the Indians.

Today, while the braves and their squaws arrive in all their paint and feathers, there is a difference to be noted. They came on the wind on their little white ponies before. This time it is in motor cars. That they arrive, for the most part.

The Osage tribe, richest of all the world's peoples, is here in force from Oklahoma; Pawnees are here from farther west; Creeks, Crooks, Pueblos and a dozen other tribes have members at the gathering.

Lawrence has been transformed into a mammoth Indian village, with a great encampment at Haskell Institute. There is a beef barbecue in progress on the ground and later there will be a buffalo feast.

Tonight, Lorgefellow's Hiawatha will be staged by a cast of Indians. The celebration tomorrow will culminate with a world's championship Indian war dance.

Planes to Guard U. S. Mail Trains

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 27.—A squadron of marine planes from the naval air station is being prepared for duty with the western mail guard to protect trains from banditry. The request came today from the commanding department of the Pacific, San Francisco, and said: "Will probably need three planes." One observation squadron from the marine aviation expeditionary force, commanded by Maj. Ross Rowell, will be sent immediately, it is said.

TWO ARE DEAD, RESULT OF THEATER OWNER'S GRUDGE

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Two men dead, one wounded and seven injured today, was the toll of a grudge which Albert Schmidt, owner of a local theater, bore against Samuel Wertheimer, former proprietor of the playhouse.

Last night, Schmidt invited Wertheimer into the basement of his theater to show him how a ventilating system operated. In the basement, Schmidt pulled a revolver, shot twice at

Squads with Machine-Guns Are Expected to Get Into Early Retaliatory Action

(By United Press)

HARRISBURG, Ill., Oct. 27.—Gangland of southern Illinois was restless today over printed threats that a reprisal "war to the death" was to be started within 24 hours between the Shelton and Birger gangs.

The gang war was forecast, following slaying of two members of the Birger faction yesterday. William McGow was found dead in his motor car near Herrin. He had been shot 25 times and there were indications that a machine-gun had been used.

Later the body of Ward Jones was found lying in a creek near Equality, Ill., a small mining town. There were indications he had been murdered and brought by motor car to the lonely scene where the body was found.

Immediately there came talk of reprisal and printed reports have been circulated as coming from Charles Birger, roadhouse proprietor, who heads the faction of his name, that it was "war to the death."

The printed report quoted Birger as saying that the wives of members of his faction would be spirited out of the locality tonight and that the machine-gun squads would get into action.

WILL ATTEMPT TO TUNE IN ON MARS

LONDON, Oct. 27.—British radio listeners will seek to tune in on Mars tonight, when the planet will be in a more favorable position for the reception of messages from it than at any previous time for 100 years.

From today until November 4, Mars will be only 42,000 miles away.

The most powerful sending station in the world can transmit only about 10,000 miles, according to the Marconi office here, but scientists have seriously discussed the possibility of life on Mars and whether the being there might not be of intelligence and development far superior to earthlings.

Radio owners have been asked by the Wireless League of Great Britain to listen tonight and until November 4, recalling that two years ago listeners in the United States heard signals which could not be traced to any known station.

II Duce Attackers Must Stand Trial

ROME, Oct. 27.—The would-be assassins of Premier Benito Mussolini soon will face the Italian courts. The Italian dictator's expressed determination to end the series of attempts against his life led to the decision that three or more persons who are accused of planning to kill the premier must appear for trial.

CHORISTER'S BODY WILL BE EXHUMED

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Oct. 27.—The grave in the cemetery near New Brunswick, where the body of Mrs. Eleanor Mills lies, will be opened and the body of the murdered choir singer removed, it was decided today.

The skull will be examined by a medical expert to determine whether the bullets that killed the sweetheart of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, four years ago, were fired into the back of the head or the front.

An effort also will be made to determine the number of cuts received by her at the time of the murder in De Russys' lane, for which members of the Stevens family, including the dead pastor's wife, are being held for trial.

The body of Hall, who was murdered with Mrs. Mills, may be exhumed in a few days, Simpson said.

The body is in the family vault of his wife in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

Washington Quiz Brought to End

SEATTLE, Oct. 27.—Without having revealed any illegally excessive expenditures on the part of either Republican or Democratic senatorial candidates, the senate "slush fund" committee investigation into Washington politics was over today. Democrats claimed they actually would be benefitted by the inquiry, launched by the request of Sam R. Sumner, Republican state chairman.

'PHANTOM KILLER' HUNTED IN TOLEDO AFTER 2 WOMEN ARE MURDERED BY CLUBBER

(By United Press)

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 27.—A "phantom clubber," believed responsible for the mysterious deaths of three women a year ago, has resumed his murderous prowls here.

Two women have been beaten to death within 24 hours under circumstances which were similar and which bear the marks of the same fiend who terrorized the entire city up to last January. The latest victim of the marauder is Mrs. Mary Ann Alden, 47 years old. She was beaten and shot to death and her clothing stripped from the body.

Toledo already had been aroused by the murder, the night previously, of Miss Lily Gray, 26, a school teacher.

Women were warned to keep off the streets at night and when alone at home day or night to keep their doors bolted and be wary of strangers.

The entire police department was assigned to track the "phantom" murderer. Hundreds of American Legion members volunteered for duty in patrolling the city.

Financial Wizard, Jailed in Texas, Must Return To Massachusetts

(By United Press)

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 27.—Charles Ponzi, Boston "financial wizard," in jail at Houston, lost his fight against extradition to Massachusetts when the court of criminal appeals today denied his application for a writ of habeas corpus.

Ponzi is to be returned to Massachusetts to serve a sentence of from seven to nine years, imposed after conviction of being "a common and notorious thief."

Validity of the extradition warrant, issued by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, was attacked, Ponzi contending that, at the time of his arrest by Texas officers at New Orleans, he was a subject of Italy and was entitled from a ship on which he was employed. He claimed that he was kidnapped by the Texas officers and taken to Houston and jailed. He had been allowed $20,000 bail, but was unable to furnish it.

The court of criminal appeals held that the extradition warrant was valid in all respects.

Later the body of Ward Jones was found lying in a creek near Equality, Ill., a small mining town. There were indications he had been murdered and brought by motor car to the lonely scene where the body was found.

Immediately there came talk of reprisal and printed reports have been circulated as coming from Charles Birger, roadhouse proprietor, who heads the faction of his name, that it was "war to the death."

The printed report quoted Birger as saying that the wives of members of his faction would be spirited out of the locality tonight and that the machine-gun squads would get into action.

QUIZ DEMOCRATS IN POLITICAL SCANDAL

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 27.—Leaders of the Democratic party in Indiana were quizzed today by the Marion county grand jury in the investigation of the state political scandal resulting from alleged Ku Klux Klan influence.

Thomas Taggart, former U. S. senator, and Charles A. Greathouse, Democratic national committeeman in Indiana, were the first Democratic leaders called.

"I told them all I knew," Taggart said.

R. Earl Peters, Democratic state chairman, and other leaders of the party were under subpoena to appear later.

It was understood Taggart and Greathouse were questioned concerning a reputed offer from George Elliott, former cyclops of the Marion county Klan, and Harvey Bedford, former Indianapolis policeman, to sell the Democrats certain documents shedding light on the political activities of D. C. Stephenson as grand dragon of the Indiana Klan.

CHORISTER'S BODY WILL BE EXHUMED

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Oct. 27.—The grave in the cemetery near New Brunswick, where the body of Mrs. Eleanor Mills lies, will be opened and the body of the murdered choir singer removed, it was decided today.

The skull will be examined by a medical expert to determine whether the bullets that killed the sweetheart of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, four years ago, were fired into the back of the head or the front.

An effort also will be made to determine the number of cuts received by her at the time of the murder in De Russys' lane, for which members of the Stevens family, including the dead pastor's wife, are being held for trial.

The body of Hall, who was murdered with Mrs. Mills, may be exhumed in a few days, Simpson said.

The body is in the family vault of his wife in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

SEATTLE, Oct. 27.—Without having revealed any illegally excessive expenditures on the part of either Republican or Democratic senatorial candidates, the senate "slush fund" committee investigation into Washington politics was over today. Democrats claimed they actually would be benefitted by the inquiry, launched by the request of Sam R. Sumner, Republican state chairman.

TWO ARE DEAD, RESULT OF THEATER OWNER'S GRUDGE

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Two men dead, one wounded and seven injured today, was the toll of a grudge which Albert Schmidt, owner of a local theater, bore against Samuel Wertheimer, former proprietor of the playhouse.

Last night, Schmidt invited Wertheimer into the basement of his theater to show him how a ventilating system operated. In the basement, Schmidt pulled a revolver, shot twice at

Battle to Death in Southern Illinois Threatened After Two Men Are Slain

Squads with Machine-Guns Are Expected to Get Into Early Retaliatory Action

(By United Press)

HARRISBURG, Ill., Oct. 27.—Gangland of southern Illinois was restless today over printed threats that a reprisal "war to the death" was to be started within 24 hours between the Shelton and Birger gangs.

The gang war was forecast, following slaying of two members of the Birger faction yesterday. William McGow was found dead in his motor car near Herrin. He had been shot 25 times and there were indications that a machine-gun had been used.

Later the body of Ward Jones was found lying in a creek near Equality, Ill., a small mining town. There were indications he had been murdered and brought by motor car to the lonely scene where the body was found.

HANDWRITING EXPERT TARGET FOR SARCASTIC ATTACK MADE BY DEFENSE IN MURDER CASE

Directing a fire of sarcasm and ridicule at the witness, the defense in the Philip A. Goodwin case today launched its cross-examination of Milton Carlson, prosecution handwriting expert, in an effort to break down the testimony offered by the expert during his five hours occupancy of the witness stand.

Defense Attorney Kitt Gould wore his fighting clothes in court today and was loaded for Carlson, when the latter finished his session as a state witness, shortly before 11 o'clock this morning. Gould directed his early cross-examination to attempt to belittle the witness and the success of the attack between witness and counsel developed much humor, which the court was at difficulty to stem.

Carlson, testifying for the state, had identified indorsements upon the back of oil stock certificates belonging to Joseph J. Patterson, as forgeries, and had testified that a typewriter, used in making portions of the indorsements, was the same used in typing a letter from Tia Juana to E. G. Rockett, in Los Angeles, a few days after the disappearance of Patterson. Goodwin, the prosecution alleges, sold the oil stock certificates after forging the indorsements, following Patterson's murder, and also was author of the letter from Tia Juana, which had Patterson's name signed to it. Carlson's testimony was regarded as vitally important to establishing these points.

Signature is Identical

Today, Carlson also identified the signature, "Howard Howlett, Charleston, West Virginia," on the register of the Manhattan hotel, San Diego, as being in the same handwriting as the allegedly forged indorsements on the oil stock certificates. The state claims that the hotel register inscription, dated March 13, was made by Goodwin, while he was in San Diego with Gaines and Patterson just before the alleged murder.

Court Orders Sesqui Close Sundays

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 27.—A permanent injunction closing the Sesqui-Centennial International exposition in Philadelphia on Sundays was issued in Dauphin county court today. The injunction was granted on the application of John Robert Jones, counsel for a member of Philadelphia associations interested in the closing of the exposition on Sundays.

came to verbal grips when the cross-examination started. Gould wanted to know when and where Carlson was born and the witness replied that he was born in a log cabin in Ripley county, Indiana, December 8, 1870.

"In a log cabin, eh?" said Gould. "Right next to Lincoln, were you?"

Gould then took Carlson up through the witness' school days, college education, teaching career and his service as Swedish consul. Carlson said that he had appeared in his first case as a handwriting expert 30 or 31 years ago. Gould wanted to know what other business he had and Carlson said he owned extensive real estate interests, which paid him an income of several hundred dollars per month.

"God Bless You"

"God bless you for that," murmured Gould piously.

Then Gould started to cross-examine Carlson on his educational equipment.

"Yesterday, you used the word 'to wit,' in your testimony," said Gould. "Just what does that mean?"

"To wit means namely," said Carlson. Gould appeared shocked at appalling ignorance.

"You mean to tell me it means namely," he asked.

Carlson said, it seemed.

"How about 'typewrote'?" What does that mean?" Gould next asked.

"I didn't use that word," Carlson said. "I may have said someone typewrote a letter, which would be correct. I said the letter was typewritten."

Then came an argument over the use of callipers, which Carlson had employed in illustrating handwriting measurements to the jury. Gould demanded to know if the correct and most accurate use of callipers didn't require use, also, of a micrometer. Carlson said not. Gould then asked if the points of the callipers should not be placed directly upon the handwriting, in making measurements.

Carlson told him that if that were done, the points would destroy a portion of the exhibit. Gould had just illustrated his own idea of the proper way.

"Do you think I have destroyed any of that exhibit?" he challenged Carlson.

"I'll wager you have," responded the witness.

"How much will you wager?" Gould asked, but the court interfered with the possibility of a bet being placed.

Late yesterday, while Carlson was making measurements of handwriting with his callipers, a clash was precipitated, when Gould intimated that the witness was changing the radius of his calliper points, to suit his testimony.

When a juror asked Carlson if the points could be moved without touching the set screw, Carlson said that they could be bent apart, but could not be forced together where his hand held the instrument. Gould at that moment held aloft a pair of callipers of his own and demonstrated how his grip could shift the points rapidly.

The defense produced a handwriting expert of its own, while Carlson was testifying yesterday. I. N. Inskeep is the defense expert. He was not in court today, but is expected to testify for the defense later.

Albert Gaines, the prosecution's heralded star witness, may take the stand this afternoon, it was said, if the cross-examination of Carlson is completed in time. The state probably will rest its case late tomorrow or Friday, it was intimated.

Houdini Still In Grave Condition

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 27.—Condition of Harry Houdini, magician, who is seriously ill here, following an operation for appendicitis, was "unchanged" during the night, Dr. Daniel Cohn, one of his physicians, informed the United Press this morning. Houdini is suffering from peritonitis. The actor insisted upon completing a Sunday appearance at a local theater, after which he collapsed.

There are some people in this world who think I am a very rotten watchmaker—and there are some who don't. I have my own opinion about it and a lot of time to think it over. NURSE TESTIFIES FOR EVANGELIST original slips were stolen during a grand jury investigation of the McPherson case and the prosecution is using photostatic copies as evidence in the present hearing.

Gilbert declared he had photostatic copies of the original slips and of the photostatic copies indicating that the latter had been "doctored" to resemble the evangelist's handwriting.

Milton Carlson, state's handwriting expert, testified recently that the Carmel grocery slip and Mrs. McPherson's notes on her famous "Light and Darkness" sermon apparently were written by the same woman. He denied under cross-examination at the time that there was any evidence that the photostatic copies differed from the originals, which disappeared in a grand jury room.

Youth to Be Surrendered

S. S. Hahn, attorney for Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman, state's witness and confessed perpetrator of a "Miss X" hoax, announced today that his client's 13-year-old son, Robert, would be surrendered to the defense tomorrow. The boy has been subpoenaed in connection with asserted trips to Carmel with his mother and aunt, Mrs. Virila Kimball, whom the defense contends was the "Miss X" who occupied the Ormiston bungalow at Carmel.

Mrs. Wiseman has refused to disclose that he is in hiding and, adding that he is to remain away from Los Angeles until after the hearing.

A fresh contingent of defense witnesses arrived today from the border country near Douglas.

They included desert rangers, who claim to have found the evangelist's footprints for a space of 20 miles in the interior, and numerous shacks similar to the one in which Mrs. McPherson claims she was held captive by kidnapers.

Movie Chatterbox

BY GENE COHN

Lya de Putti, the spectacular young siren from Berlin, is about to be put through the popularity mill by the demons of filmdom.

Which is to say that they will present her in so-called "sympathetic roles."

Disturbing as it may be to one who hears constant references to "art" and "betterment" in the movies, the idea of "selling" an artist to the public and "making her sympathetic" still obtains.

Thus the lovely Lya made her first imprint on the American audiences through a German made picture, "Variety." In this she captured the illusive quality, referred to as sex appeal, in a fashion never before seen in the pictures. With none of the usual vampire agonies or makeups, she became a most human and believable siren.

Somehow the gods of the movie machine seem quickly to forget what happened to such an actress, for instance, as Pola Negri. She came from Europe under much the same circumstances. She had played with Emil Jannings and, being recognized as an artist, was given a fat contract.

She, too, was ground through the star system mill and has done little work mentioning since. I believe some eleventh hour effort at resuscitation is now under way.

The story of how artists have been slain by movie stories and roles is no new one. There is the case of Renee Adoree, an artist acclaimed by 75 per cent of the critical press. Her work in "The Big Parade" needs no introduction. In "Tin Gods" she walked completely away with a picture starring Tom Meighan.

Yet she continues to be used on ordinary program stuff. I asked about the plans for her at the studio recently and was told:

"Yes, we know all the critics like her. But she's so hard to get pictures for."

Which seemed to be a terrible admission for a company that boasts a huge scenario department.

TRIAL SIDELIGHTS

"We're certainly getting some balliff service at this trial," declared Court Clerk Mel Head, as he watched Balliff Harry Carter handling the crowds, the witnesses, and at the same time keeping his eagle eye on the defendant, who is Carter's special charge while in the courtroom.

Carlson has been "on top" of the crowds every minute of the trial, seeing that the dignity of the court isn't trifled with. Each time he opens court, after ordering the spectators to arise during this little ceremony, he demands order—and gets it.

It's a small world. Albert Dewey Gaines once was convicted of forgery at Fresno. Attorney Kitt Gould was in the courtroom at the time. Now Gould and Gaines are again in the same courtroom, but under different circumstances.

Spectators at the trial are puzzled when the balliff carefully lowers the window blind back of the witness chair, when a witness takes the stand.

"Sh-h-h-u-s-sh, I know why they do that," one man whispered to another. "I heard 'em say that they were afraid that somebody would stand down on the street with a gun and, when a certain witness comes to the stand, shoot him."

Philip A. Goodwin, the defendant, served in the Canadian army during the World war and was gassed, it is said.

Promotion in his church has come to the Rev. Father Goodwin since his arrest on the murder charge, it has been learned. He has been advanced from the rank of priest to that of provincial pastor.

WARNING

Plain is the message conveyed to the brain by the nerves, which are the telephone wires of the body. Any undue pressure upon a nerve caused by injury or inflammation in any part will set these wires going and notify the individuals that something is wrong. These friendly warnings of nature should be heeded. When pain comes, therefore, we should not try to kill it, but to relieve it by removing the cause.

In order to remove the cause of your pain, sickness or disease, we must first find the location of that cause. This is done by taking an X-Ray picture of the bony segments of the spine where the nerves are subject to pressure as they emit through the little openings. These nerves carry all of the nerve force or functional energy received by the heart, lungs, liver, stomach, kidneys, bowels, etc., and by viewing an X-Ray you can see the condition with your own eyes. This assures you that your case is not being guessed at.

Then with our hands alone we adjust these bony segments into their proper position. In this manner health has been permanently restored to hundreds of people suffering with such conditions as heart palpitation, liver trouble, biliousness, stomach and kidney trouble, chronic constipation and uncomfortable diseases which, if neglected, gradually become worse instead of better.

Chiropactic is not a cure-all, nor do we claim it to be such, but we do know that hundreds of sick people have been restored to health by MARTYN FREE X-RAY CHIROPRACTORS after they had become discouraged and about ready to give up hope.

If you are sick don't say you have tried everything until you have consulted us about your case. For the next seven days the coupon below will entitle the bearer to a complete spinal examination, and without charge or obligation we will make a standard size X-Ray picture showing the exact cause of your trouble. If you are sick and wish to be well, just clip the coupon below.

ARMISTICE DAY WORKERS WILL MAKE REPORTS

The regular meeting of Santa Ana post, No. 131, American Legion, will be held in the organization's clubrooms, on Birch street, Thursday night.

Several new members are to be taken into the organization, but the principal business to be discussed will be final plans for the Armistice day celebration and parade, Jules Markel, commander, said today.

Because of the fact that meeting dates in November fall on holidays, the meetings probably will be postponed and for that reason Thursday's meeting probably will be the final one before the celebration.

Committees are to report on plans for the parade, which is expected to be the largest ever held in the county, and incidents which have not been arranged will be "ironed out," Markel said.

AMENDMENT NO. 10 GIVEN INDORSEMENT

Attorneys C. D. Swanner and Otto Jacobs, both graduates of the University of Southern California, call attention of voters to the following resolution, indorsing amendment No. 10, as passed by the directors of the Alumni Association of the University of Southern California:

"Whereas, there is an increasing demand on the part of the people or the state of California to increase facilities in building equipment for the University of California in all its departments; and

"Whereas, the building program must be undertaken in Los Angeles to have the activities of the Southern Branch of the University of California; and

"Whereas, the members of our association are keenly interested in furthering the best interests of higher education throughout the state.

"Therefore, Be It Resolved, that the board of directors of the University of Southern California indorse the bond issue (amendment No. 10) to be voted on at the state election in November for the purpose of building and equipping the University of California facilities in Los Angeles and extending the work in Berkeley.

"Be It Further Resolved, that we call upon the members of our association throughout the state to give such time as is possible to the furtherance of this bond issue."

FITTING CEREMONIES MARK SANTA ANA OBSERVANCE OF FOURTH ANNUAL NAVY DAY

Fitting ceremonies, distinctly patriotic in character, including flag raising and a flag salute, participated in by a detachment of bluejackets and a crowd of private citizens, marked today's celebration of the fourth annual Navy day in Santa Ana.

It was a joint celebration of the navy's 149th anniversary and the birthday anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt.

The navy's part on the program was represented by the U. S. S. Curry, a destroyer attached to the battle fleet, which, decked in gayest holiday attire, dropped anchor, early this morning, off Newport Beach.

Tour of County

Following the exchange of official courtesies between Lt. Com. L. F. Reifkohl, commanding officer of the destroyer, and Dr. Conrad Richter, mayor of Newport Beach, the officers and a part of the crew were taken in automobiles for a sightseeing trip about the county.

Accompanying the navy men were Harry Welch, secretary of the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the reception committee; Charles Way, W. L. Jordan, Benjamin Funcheon and Walter Eastlack, members of the committee.

Following stops in Tustin, Orange, Oliver Richfield and Placencia, at which place the "gobs" were served refreshments, the sightseeing party arrived here shortly before noon for the patriotic program presented by the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce.

Impressive Ceremonies

Distinctly impressive and followed with much interest by the spectators, who crowded the sidewalks about the courthouse, the flag raising, participated in by Mayor Frank W. Purinton, Supervisor S. H. Fines and Commander Reifkohl, Raymond Hutchins, high school student, sounded the bugle call "To the Colors," while the starred ensign was hoisted to the top of the flagpole. Mayor Purinton made a brief address of welcome, followed by George A. Raymer, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, who, in a few words, dwelt upon the importance of the navy as the nation's "first line of defense."

Following the exercises in this city, the navy men were taken to the Anaheim Elks club, where they were entertained at luncheon. After luncheon, the visiting party visited Fullerton, Brea, La Habra, Garden Grove, Westminster and Huntington Beach, returning to Newport Beach, where they boarded their ship.

JURY EMPANELLED FOR CHECK CASE

A jury was empanelled today in Superior Judge H. G. Ames' court to determine whether Sherman Moore, charged with check kiting, is insane.

Moore pleaded insanity when arraigned on the check charge a few weeks ago. His father, D. G. Moore, Compton attorney, is defending him. Deputy District Attorneys D. G. Wetlin and Kenneth H. Burns conducted the prosecution.

The first witnesses called today were Dr. G. E. Myers, of Compton sanitarium, and Dr. E. H. Steele, of the Los Angeles county hospital, both of whom had had Moore under observation at various times, they said.

Dr. Myers said that the defendant had "peculiar" ways. Dr. Steele said that the youth had been in his hospital a number of times, each time following an alleged check kiting affair.

OBITUARY

Lydia C. Newby, daughter of Barnaby and Rachel Newby, was born in Hamilton county, Indiana, March 28, 1838. Died in Whittier, October 19, 1926, at the age of 88 years, 6 months and 21 days.

On April 30th, 1871, she was married to W. A. Paddock, in Leavenworth, Kan. After their marriage they made their home in Springfield, Kas., where they resided for 20 years. In 1891 they came to California and settled near Orange.

In 1912 they moved to Whittier, but had only lived here a few months when the husband was called to the home above.

Of her near relatives, she leaves only a brother, Elwood Newby, whose home is in Kansas. There are many more distant relatives and friends who will greatly miss her.

She was a lifelong member of the Friends' church and in her more active days held positions of trust in the activities of the church.

FUNERAL RITES ARE HELD FOR MRS. V. B. HEAD

Last rites of the Methodist Episcopal church were held at 10 o'clock this morning, in the chapel of Winbiger's Mission Funeral home, for Mrs. Virginia B. Head, wife of Joseph B. Head and daughter of Mrs. Jessie H. Burns, 2117 Greenleaf street.

The new pastor of the First Methodist church, the Rev. Charles F. Seitter, officiated at the impressive services. Dr. E. J. Inwood, of Long Beach, and Dr. Will A. Bettis, of Glendale, former pastors of the church here and close friends of the family, paid high tribute to Mrs. Head.

Following prayer, reading of Scripture and the singing of "Jesus Lover of My Soul," by the Rev. James Hughes, assistant pastor of the Methodist church, with Mrs. W. B. Snow at the piano, Dr. Inwood spoke.

The Rev. Mr. Betts spoke of the four years of friendship which he had enjoyed with Mrs. Head's family. He said that he considered himself a better man and a more devoted Christian through the influence of her life.

Board Locks Out School Teachers

WILLOWS, Calif., Oct. 27.—Glenn county's proposed high school teachers' strike became a lockout, when the board of trustees took the initiative and closed several schools, dismissing more than 500 students.

Some 40 teachers previously had served notice they would quit teaching, until they received their salaries, which were more than a month behind.

The controversy came up when the high school county fund was exhausted, and County Treasurer Edward S. Ball refused to transfer other funds to pay the teachers' warrants, on the ground that such action would be illegal.

Betrothals Woman's Page Social Items Weddings Reception By Eleanor Young Elliott Fashion Hints

Guest from Seattle Is Made Honoree at Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Treve of 110 North Broadway, were dinner hosts early in the week, complimentary to Mrs. Louise Heiser of Seattle, a friend of long standing when the Treves were residents of the northern city.

The hostess recognized the Halloween season by her use of amusing witches, black cats and goblins in living room, dining room and sun parlor, and even the lights were covered with jack-o'-lantern faces which added to the eerie effect.

Dinner was served in seven courses and Halloween appointments prevailed in place cards, and all table decorations. The remainder of the evening was devoted to games and dancing.

Out-of-town guests included in addition to the honoree, Mrs. Heiser, Miss L. Stone and J. Buchanan, also of Seattle, and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Mackey of Los Angeles. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Phillips, Mrs. A. B. Watson, Miss Jimmie Flagg, James Dugan and A. G. Nordstrum.

Capistrano Y. L. I. Celebrates Hallowe'en

Two old witches and three ghosts made things lively on Tuesday evening, when they planned a Hallowe'en party for the members of Capistrano Institute, No. 104, Y. L. I., following a brief business meeting.

The meeting was largely attended and all members were sent from the hall by the committee, headed by Mrs. Christine Gorman. Soon the witches appeared with brooms and swept the company back into the darkened hall, which was dimly lighted by pumpkin faces, and decorated with chrysanthemums and little smiling red Hallowe'en elves.

Led by a ghost, "the members circled the hall in serpentine, falling over various obstacles on the floor, until in a pitchy black, two more ghosts encouragingly urged them to step off into space and landing upon bed springs, they merrily bounced upon their way.

A number of jolly games caused shrieks of laughter, until someone looked out a window and reported that one of the city's guardians of the peace was outside.

Following the merrymaking the committee served sweet cider and everyone expressed the wish that Hallowe'en might come more often than once a year.

The announcement was made that the next dancing party in the series given by the institute would occur on November 9, the regular meeting date. A card party to build up the social fund will be given in the near future.

Reception Is Held For Newly-weds

A very pleasant event of the week-end was the reception held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Armstrong of Tustin avenue, when friends were given opportunity to greet their son, Ernest Armstrong, and his bride whose marriage was celebrated so recently by the Rev. Grover Ralston at his parsonage home in Newport.

A large number of friends and relatives came to wish them a long and prosperous wedded life. Guests were from San Bernardino, Los Angeles and Pasadena as well as from Santa Ana. Music enlivened the occasion and songs were sung by Herbert Wood of Pasadena and the Rev. Mr. Bayard, pastor of the Costa Mesa Community church who is a composer as well as musician.

Refreshments of chicken sandwiches, cake, ice cream and coffee were served and then the guests were given opportunity to see the many handsome gifts received by the happy pair, and which were on display in one of the rooms of the flower-decked home. Many of the gifts were from the bride's mother and other relatives in South Dakota.

Piano Recital

With none but "Very Small People" on the program, a recent recital at the Unitarian church, gave keen pleasure to the many guests gathered at the invitation of Mrs. Jay C. Hamill, to hear one of her small music pupils, Mary Jean Stever, assisted by a group of child artists.

Mary Jean played her varied numbers from memory, and did exceedingly well. The program opened with a trio, "Moreaux Brilliante" played by Mary Jean, Kathryn Eldund and Ellen Neal. Solo numbers played by the little maid with marked expression and technique for one so young, included "Crisis Cross," "The Wind," and "Merry Bobolink" in one group; "Christmas Day Secrets," "Swing Lullaby" and "Peter Pan" in another, and "The Cradle," "A Little Waltz" and "The Guitar" in a third.

Schuman's "Joyous Peasant," a Provençal Minuet, March from a Beethoven Sonata and a Bach March were other numbers played in exceedingly capable fashion.

Little Betty Jane Graham, a clever young reader, varied the program with several numbers and it came to an end with a two-piano number, "Minuet from Sonata Opus 49," Beethoven, with Mary Jean Stever at the first piano, and her brother, Demont Galbraith, at the second.

The church was decked with flowers for the occasion, and the guests remained to congratulate Mrs. Hamill upon the skill and talent displayed by her pupils.

County Lions to Roar Tomorrow Night at Fair Grounds

Members of Orange county Lions clubs today were completing arrangements for participating tomorrow evening in the "high jinks" program to be given in the dining room at the Orange County fair grounds under the auspices of the Orange County Council of Lions clubs.

It is to be an affair in which restraint will be thrown to the winds and the merrymakers will indulge in frolics licensed by a hard time party. Men and women are expected to appear in tattered rags, but this will be optional. However, fines will be imposed on any one who dares to make his appearance in a "tux."

Reservations made up to noon today promised the presence of more than 100 couples. The program will start at 8 o'clock, with the first hour devoted to entertainment to be offered by the various clubs, each club being obligated to providing one stunt.

Team No. 5, of the Santa Ana club, captained by Harold E. Wahlberg, will be responsible for the number to be presented by the local organization.

Quill Pen Meets With Miss Campbell

The Quill Pen club, that little group of scribes who "foregather fortnightly in their forum of free expression," met Monday night with Miss Gladys Campbell at 1230 French street.

This club is an aggregation of versifiers and falsifiers—some writing verse while others write short stories. Here their MSS are brought either finished or unfinished, for suggestions, titles and criticism, with the result that much benefit, as well as diversion, is derived by all.

Monday night's meeting was presided over by Mrs. J. F. Adams, the newly elected leader. Other members present were Mesdames Joseph Vlau, F. Conover, F. J. Was, H. M. Smith, N. E. Wells, Miss Verna Wells; while guests included the Misses Beth Phillips and Esther Jean Davis, Mesdames H. A. Smith, D. A. Casey of Orange, and Susan Merryfield of Spirit Lake, Iowa.

At the close of the interesting meeting, Miss Campbell, assisted by Miss Davis, served inviting refreshments.

The Philathea class of the First Baptist Sunday school will hold a party Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. William Rohrbacker, 704 South Ross street, with all members urged to be present.

A Hallowe'en luncheon in the section room of Ebel clubhouse, was the pleasant feature offered the Ebel's current events section members yesterday by Mrs. William G. Knox and Mrs. E. U. Dickinson as hostesses.

All but three members were present, and two guests were entertained. Mrs. Hyde and Miss Norma Wingood. In the afternoon after the brief business session, bridge was introduced and attractive prizes given the winners.

MISS HELENA LIEBERMAN IS WEDDED AT NUPTIAL MASS

A wedding of beautiful appointments and impressive solemnity was that of Miss Helena Lieberman, daughter of Mrs. Anna Lieberman, and Julius Ogden Markel, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Markel, which occurred this morning at 8:30 o'clock at St. Joseph's church with the Rev. Father Henry Eummelen officiating.

The church was beautified with flowers, clusters of white chrysanthemums and trailing vines used to mark off the pews where members of the family were seated, and baskets of both white and yellow chrysanthemums used at the altar.

Solemn nuptial high mass was sung and the musical services included an exquisite arrangement of the Ave Maria by Madame Manuela Budrow, and sung by its composer. Other outstanding features of the mass were the solo part sung by Miss Elizabeth Easton and the chorus of fresh and lovely children's voices accompanying communion.

Miss Anna O'Donnell was at the organ and it was to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March that the bridal party entered the church, the ushers, Francis Fisher and Jack Brothers, leading the procession. They were followed by the two bridesmaids, Miss Agnes Lieberman and Miss Mary Banks, then the maid of honor, Miss Marjorie Brothers, walking alone.

Two pretty children, little Mary Markel, tiny sister of the bridegroom, as flower girl, in a filmy frock of white chiffon over pink, and Master Charles Borchard in black velvet, as ring bearer, marched together, preceding the bride.

Miss Lieberman entered on the arm of her brother, Benjamin Lieberman, and was a charming picture in her bridal gown of white crepe Romaine, beaded with pearl and crystal beads in graceful design. Her lovely blonde hair was entirely covered by the veil which was arranged in an unusual cap fashion with a bandeau of lace. Her flowers were a great cluster of bride roses with gauze ribbon showers. The bridesmaids wore gowns of taffeta, each with applied hem, applied flowers and neck, and drapery in contrasting color. Miss Agnes Lieberman was in orchid and green and Miss Banks was in rose and beige. Miss Brothers' honor maid costume was of apple green taffeta in similar fashion but with the applied hem and drapery at the bateau neck line, of soft rose silk net. Each wore a black velvet picture hat and black patent leather slippers and each carried sweet peas to harmonize with her gown.

At the altar, the bride was met by Mr. Markel, assisted by his brother, Sidney Markel, as best man. Because Miss Lieberman has been prominent in the Young Ladies' Sodality of the church, she was wedded with Sodality honors, adding to the impressiveness of the ceremony. Mr. Markel's two young brothers, Albert and Walter Markel, were the attending acolytes at the mass.

Mendelssohn's Wedding March was the recessional to which the happy couple left the church, in a shower of rice from the choir of which Mr. Markel is a member.

Proceeding to the Lieberman home, 612 French street, the members of the wedding party and close relatives enjoyed a wedding breakfast. The home was decked with autumn flowers in their rich shades, and the dining room was especially lovely with its wealth of bloom. Eluding their friends, Mr. Markel and his bride left for their honeymoon, still maintaining the secret of their destination. Mrs. Markel chose a soft chiffon velvet frock in burgundy shades for traveling, with hat, gloves and shoes to harmonize. Upon their return they will take an apartment until the completion of the new home Mr. Markel is building.

Miss Lieberman has been the incentive for countless parties and showers ever since the announcement of the betrothal, which was made just after Mr. Markel's return from New Orleans where he was taking an architectural course. In many of the parties, a prominent part was taken by her associates of the Register office where she has been a valued employee for several years.

Our Neighbors

PASADENA.—Pasadena has entertained 16 conventions here so far this year, and in so doing has been host to a total of 10,800 individual delegates who remained in the city for periods ranging from one to 10 days, according to a survey just completed by the local chamber of commerce. These visitors, chamber of commerce officials point out, spent approximately $84,000 in Pasadena, at a conservative estimate. Such expenditure of outside money benefits general business in the city as much as would a large industry employing 450 wage earners at an average wage of $1800 each for the period mentioned, they say.

SAN DIEGO.—Continuance of the upward trend of general business here is reflected in the volume of check transactions during the week ending October 15, which show an increase of 6.8 per cent over the corresponding week last year and a gain of 24.3 per cent over the weekly average of 1924. That is revealed in the weekly business summary of the Eberle and Riggelman Economic service. Almost offsetting the unusually sharp decline of the previous week, Los Angeles business activity experienced a strong increase during the week closing October 20, according to Eberle and Riggelman. Check transactions in Los Angeles during that week showed a gain of 0.1 per cent as against the same week a year ago and a decline of 1.7 per cent as compared with the weekly average of 1924, the summary reveals.

POMONA.—That Pomona is surging steadily forward on a tide of substantial growth and development is shown by statistics compiled by J. Lear, city building inspector, which reveal that during the past week 18 permits, authorizing construction of new improvements, were issued.

OWENSMOUTH.—It has been decided to locate the new citrus packing house of the orange and lemon growers of the west end of San Fernando valley on the Charles Weeks tract northeast of Owensmouth. The acres that have been acquired from Mr. Weeks front on Roscoe street and are near the Southern Pacific right of way. It was announced yesterday that work on the plant will start at once. The western part of the valley grows a large amount of citrus fruits. About six months ago it was decided to build a local packing plant to obviate the necessity of hauling fruit to the town of San Fernando for packing and shipment.

Tipping in Spanish hotels is now forbidden, the tipping charge being added to the regular hotel bill.

Lobsters make love to their mates much as do humans, according to an English scientist.

Greater London has 2300 miles of streets and their upkeep costs about $15,000,000 a year.

Only $3,682 out of 100,000 live through their teens, according to a recent university survey.

Surprise Shower Held For Bride-elect In Hill Home

Entering with enthusiasm into plans to hold a party for Mrs. Marvin Hill, supposedly planning to leave soon for a trip, Miss Juanita Meyers was very much surprised indeed to find herself the honor guest at the gay affair which was held Monday evening at the Marvin Hill home, 1140 West Pine street.

Miss Meyers was showered with lovely gifts by the guests, in honor of her engagement and approaching marriage to Clifton Alexander. The presentation was made by the hostess who donned a witch costume for the ceremony, thus fitting admirably into her chosen decorative scheme of Hallowe'en symbols and colors.

After an evening of merry games and chat, Mrs. Hill, assisted by her sister, Miss Ruth Shields, served appropriate refreshments of pumpkin pie with whipped cream, coffee and hot chocolate.

Those enjoying the merry evening and showering attractive gifts on the honoree, Miss Meyers, were the co-hostesses, Mrs. Hill and Miss Ruth Shields, Mrs. John Shields, Mrs. Amos, Mrs. Lorene Hancock, Mrs. Joseph Hazen, Mrs. Mabel Durbin, Mrs. May Mart, Mrs. Lillian Thornton, Mrs. Elmer M. Raina, the Misses Minnie Woods, Verna Eustis, Hilda Krug, Ora Elledge and Gladys Straight.

HISTORIC MISSION AT SANTA CLARA AND MANY PRICELESS RELICS ARE DESTROYED BY FLAMES

Damage estimated at $150,000 was done to buildings of the University of Santa Clara, Santa Clara, Calif., by fire. At the right is the historic Santa Clara mission, founded Jan. 12, 1777, completely destroyed by flames with many priceless relics lost. The burned structure was erected in 1822, replacing two previous buildings. At the left are shown students fighting the fire.

SWEEPING WIN PREDICTED BY STATE G. O. P.

Beginning its final drive of the 1926 political campaign, the Los Angeles Republican County Central committee has issued a statement predicting that the entire G. O. P. ticket, from Lt. Gov. C. C. Young, the party candidate for governor, down to the last assemblyman nominee, will be swept into office in next Tuesday's balloting by record-breaking majorities.

With but a few days left before the election, Ralph Arnold, chairman of the committee, declared that the success of the candidacies of Lieutenant Governor Young, Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, nominee for re-election; Burton Fitts, nominee for lieutenant governor; W. E. Evans, ninth congressional district party choice, and other candidates on the ticket, is positively assured.

"The most vital issue in Southern California is a continuation of the Republican policy of a high tariff for the protection of our agricultural industries," said Chairman Arnold, "and Senator Shortridge and Evans have concentrated their efforts on warning the citizens of the Southland of the perils of sending men to Washington who do not uphold this policy."

"The candidacies of Young and Fitts have struck a popular chord of appeal and I am certain that these Republicans, along with the other party nominees will be elected to the offices to which they aspire by the largest majorities ever given any candidate for any office on any party ticket in California at the election next Tuesday."

FAILURE OF YOUTH TO APPEAR COSTLY

Charged with speeding 47 miles an hour and failure to appear in answer to the charge, Kenneth Keith, 19, was fined $150 today, in Justice Morrison's court.

Keith was arrested last night in his home, 1900 West Twenty-third street, by Jimmy Cain, state officer, armed with a bench warrant.

Keith was fined $100 for failure to appear and $50 on the speeding charge. He was arrested originally by Ray Bradfield, state officer, on August 27.

Railroad Tracks Can't Be Seized In Liquor Cases

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The tracks of railroads which transport liquor, knowingly or otherwise, may be safe from seizure, but their freight cars and locomotives are not.

Col. Ira L. Reeves, prohibition enforcement officer for New Jersey, said he would libel two box cars seized here with $6,000 of alcohol and the locomotive that drew them.

The equipment belongs to the Philadelphia and Reading railway.

Reeves said he had intended to seize the tracks also, but found it could not be done because of interference with the U. S. mails and interstate commerce.

State Land Is to Be Leased for Oil

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 27.—One hundred and twenty-five acres of state land near the Ventura state school for girls, at Ventura, will be offered for lease to oil companies, November 5, at the state board of control office in Sacramento or the branch office in Los Angeles, it was announced here.

The land is adjacent to the Ventura oil field and will be leased on a bonus basis per acre and at a royalty for oil and gas.

If wells producing 250 barrels or less are brought in, the state will demand 12 1/2 per cent; from 250 to 750 barrels, 16 2/3 per cent, and over 750 barrels, 20 per cent. If gas is found, the state will ask one-sixth of the income.

A Great Northern locomotive, built in 1893 at a cost of $10,728, is well on its way to a million and a quarter miles of service. Its most striking achievement was 293,329 miles without an overhauling.

Alleged Reckless Driving Case to Be Investigated

A. T. Carpenter, 22, 554 North Lemon street, Orange, arrested last night by Officer V. Barnhill, of the state traffic squad, on a reckless driving charge, will not know the outcome of his case for several days.

He was given a hearing before Justice Kenneth Morrison today and his case was continued for several days, while the justice looks into the case. Bail was fixed at $250.

Carpenter is said to have admitted that he had drunk two glasses of cider just prior to his arrest.

FRUIT GROWERS WILL DISCUSS MARKET PLANS

The deciduous fruit growers and shippers of California have experienced some very disheartening difficulties in disposing of this year's enormous crop of fruit and, for the purpose of bringing order out of chaos in this respect, plans for a clearing house for some of the state's perishable products will be discussed at the fifty-ninth state fruit growers and farmers' convention, to be held in Fullerton November 9 and 10, County Horticultural Commissioner A. A. Brock said.

"This promises to be a step forward for the producers and shippers of this state and the consummation of this plan will mean prosperity to a good many sections of California," Brock commented.

Brock continued: "Those shippers who have experienced trouble this year are coming to the right place to learn how to handle and market their crop better. The citrus and walnut growers of this county have experienced, in years past, the same difficulties and have finally developed a system of avoiding some of these pitfalls and they will be able to offer valuable suggestions to the deciduous fruit growers."

The convention is to be opened by H. H. Crooke, mayor of Fullerton, who will deliver the address of welcome. The convention will be formally opened by C. C. Chapman, G. H. Hecke, director of the state department of agriculture, will respond to the remarks of Chapman and make his annual report.

INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so softens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.—Adv.

Roman Meal, the perfect grain food, is the "Happy Medium" between the too-finely refined cereals and white flour foods, and the necessary, but coarse bran which contains very little nutrient, and which should not be used except when "relieved" by a grain product such as flaxseed which dilutes the harshness of the bran and gently lubricates the "tract."

Serve Roman Meal—you worried mothers of under-nourished children, each way some day, in any one of the twenty-five different ways, and see your proud little ones improve! See, too, how tired husbands enjoy it and improve, too!

BARLEYCORN'S USURPER MUST LEAVE ISLANDS

HONOLULU, Oct. 27.—"Kauai

korn," base pretender and usurper of the high place once held by John Barleycorn, must stop swimming the channel between his native Isle of Kauai and Oahu.

The edict was announced by John Barrett, prohibition administrator for the territory of Hawaii, on his return from Washington.

The coast guard has promised to establish a station here within six months. Barrett will ask for two fast vessels to assist in the enforcement of his work.

"Kauai korn" once was just a passable substitute for poor Bourbon whiskey. It came over from Kauai and did its work the best it could. Barrett, in an effort to make it a social outcast, gave a window display some months ago. The display showed a variety of crude stills, blending and clarifying devices used by moonshiners to poison the public.

Kauai moonshiners came, looked and learned.

"That's a better system than ours," they said.

Quality, and it is said, quantity of "Kauai korn" improved.

But Barrett is determined to stop the flow. He went to Washington and obtained from Rear Adm. Frederick C. Billard promise of reinforcements.

AGAIN THE DAIRYMEN'S CASE IS STATED

Editor Register: In plain words, all that Proposition No. 3 (which we are asked to vote upon next Tuesday) amounts to is that Oleomargarine shall not be put up to look like butter nor to be substituted for butter. Unless the buyer is notified that the product he is buying is not butter. In the latter case, let the "devil take the hindmost."

People have asked me why the manufacturers of oleomargarine should be persecuted. In reply, I have asked them to take any good encyclopedia or dictionary and look up the word oleomargarine (or margarine) and read for themselves. If after that they think that anyone has been persecuted, I rest my case. True, however, we do watch the public record of men and things that have needed watching. That's necessary for our own safety.

Oleomargarine is made chiefly from copra. This dried meat of the coconut does not come from the coconut groves of California. But the little brown men of the South Sea islands dry it in the open. Later it is loaded into the hold of some steamer and emulsified, given a bath in milk (generally skimmed milk) and turned over under nicely colored wrappings as a pure food product for others than the writer. I have smelled my copra. You're next.

"Watch your pocketbook," "Wolf," "Food Tax" and other terrifying howls cannot disturb the "cow counties." Many and specious are the arguments advanced for this substitute and for every substitute for the money in it. But all of us know the record of the cow. Just plain cow. Her products, alive with the living vitamins, are hard to handle and expensive, but have the vital nourishment for children and adults.

The 2c tax? "Wrong principle" states the editorial writer. Nothing is ever wrong that is right. Butter costs 2c a pound in this city. Why wear over a 2c oleo tax? Just because the copra costs nothing and the oleo-making plants have small investment, there is relatively nothing to tax. Hence the 2c enforcement tax. It is NOT new. Pennsylvania employs it and oleo is as low there as in adjoining states where no tax is levied.

Whatever your business or profession, the dairy business is keenly associated with it. Its influence ramifies with the health of the community in which you live. Remove the dairy interests from your state and the effect would be as disastrous as immediate.

Your vote on No. 3 can only be Yes—to be right and fair.

Sincerely yours,
Charles M. Best,

DISCOVER CITY OF ABRAHAM'S EARLY CAREER

JERUSALEM, Oct. 27.—A successful season's excavation has been concluded at Shechem, the ancient Canaanite and Israelite capital near Nablus. It was conducted by Prof. Ernest Sellin of the University of Berlin, assisted by an international staff, in continuation of work begun in 1913.

Professor Sellin says the excavations have uncovered many treasures of this sanctuary and town of Palestine. Walls, two city gates, towers, several rooms and entrances remain of the city where Abraham built his altar, where Jacob buried his idols, where Joseph's tomb is reputed to be, and where the scene of the story of Abimelech, son of Jerubbaal, is laid. The city gates are the largest yet found in Palestine. The palace, which has also been excavated, built about the 18th century B. C., reveal a large room and gallery with the bases of nine columns.

Temple Mentioned in Book of Judges

Among other buildings discovered are the foundations of the Temple of Baal-berith, mentioned in the Book of Judges. Four strata of buildings have been unearthed, the latest being Hellenistic or Samaritan work, and a Jewish building, apparently a palace, probably of the time of King Jeroboam.

The temple of the Canaanite period, however, is the most ancient and important of the ruins. The building is one with columns and place for the idol. It was situated on a big terrace, artificially elevated, with three smaller buildings, which probably were chapels of minor gods or goddesses, all perhaps identified with the "House of Millo" mentioned in the Book of Judges.

Discovery Held Very Important

In each building there is a clear separation between the strata of the upper and lower cities. The temple, with the palace and chapel, were plundered in ancient times, and therefore yielded few objects of interest, although the discovery is regarded as very important.

The lower city, however, is rich in objects of interest. There are two small altars of incense of the Jewish period, pieces of a splendid golden necklace, images of the goddesses Astarte, Ishtar, and others, vases of alabaster, bronze weapons, and some fine pottery.

The most important find here was a couple of cuneiform tablets of the Tel el Amarna period, or a little later, but before 1200 B. C., containing a private letter and a list of names of persons. Names in inscriptions are rare in excavations in Palestine, and Professor Sellin thinks these tablets, when fully read, will throw new light on the period of the settlement of the children of Israel in the Promised Land.

Newport Auxiliary Plans Card Party

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 27.—Members of the auxiliary of the American Legion post here will foster a card party in the Legion hall, November 3, it was announced at a meeting of the organization last night.

Mrs. A. E. Wollard, chairman of the entertainment committee, will be in charge of the card party. The party will be held primarily to replenish the treasury of the auxiliary.

Several other events will be fostered by the Legion women in the near future. The auxiliary has been donating its money freely to worthy causes and, according to reports, more money is needed to carry on the work.

The Ebell society of Newport Beach will give the Legion auxiliary the proceeds from a rummage sale which will be held here over the week-end, according to a report made at the meeting last night. A letter of thanks was read to the auxiliary from the Boy Scout troop at Newport Beach, expressing the gratitude of the Scouts for the assistance of the Legion women in assisting at the recent opening of the Boy Scout cabin.

Mrs. Arden Long and Mrs. Ross Hostetter were hostesses last night and served light refreshments. More than 20 members of the auxiliary were present.

Popular San Diego Woman Recovers From Long Illness

Amazing Improvements in Mrs. Jester's Health Surprises Friends. Serious Ailments Caused by Nervous Breakdown Relieved and Strength Restored by Tanlac. Looks and Feels Better Than Ever

"Tanalac has certainly done wonders for me! I cannot praise it enough," declares Mrs. T. D. Jester, 1268 Pennsylvania avenue, San Diego, Calif. "I had suffered a nervous breakdown, and for many months afterward I continued to get worse and worse, despite all the different nerve medicines I tried. Nothing seemed to help until I tried Tanlac."

"I was as near to being a complete nervous and physical wreck as I could be without entirely collapsing. The slightest noise would make me want to scream, and after retiring it would be hours before I could sleep. I would awaken with terrible headaches and the slightest exertion would tire me out so that I would be trembling, I lost weight and appetite. I tried Tanlac with little expectation of improvement."

"Before I had taken all of the first bottle, I developed a ravenous appetite, and was sleeping better. I continued to improve rapidly and felt like a different person entirely. In less than three weeks I had gained seven pounds! Later, my weight went up from 105 to 125 pounds. If your troubles are similar to those from which Mrs. Jester suffered so keenly, get relief before it is too late! Tanlac will doubtless help you just as it helped Mrs. Jester—and as it has helped thousands of other sufferers. Tanlac is a pure and wholesome compound, made from herbs, roots and barks, according to the famous Tanlac formula. It is a wonderful tonic medicine for run-down and nervous conditions and for digestive disorders. All good druggists sell Tanlac—get your first bottle today! Over 40 million bottles sold.

State Highways

IS CALIFORNIA TO LOSE her PLACE among the States in motor highway building?

With Eastern and Southern States spending millions for new highways, CALIFORNIA FACES TWO YEARS WITH NOT ONE CENT AVAILABLE FOR NEW ROADS.

No. 4—the "painless tax"—A one-cent gas tax solely for new highways, providing $8,000,000 annually for twelve years. (No bond issue, no interest and selling charge).

No. 8—A measure allocating new highway funds, and appropriating $5,000,000 annually from the general fund.

These two measures on the November ballot are sound in principle and simple of administration. Both should pass to insure the immediate completion of our highway system.

Funds realized by No. 4, the more important measure, would be spent under the plan of No. 8, which is of particular interest to Southern California.

THERE IS NO LEGAL OR OTHER CONFLICT BETWEEN NO. 4 AND NO. 8

Three wrecks over the week-end was the traffic toll in this vicinity. L. W. Walker's car was damaged when he ran into another car which turned without warning right in front of him on Saturday afternoon just as he was leaving Garden Grove. On the Bolsa road Sunday afternoon, just in front of the Sterling Price place, two machines went together, and one car, owned by Roy Artley, 4422 South San Pedro street, Los Angeles, had the front wheel torn off from the hub, and otherwise badly damaged. This car, with the other one belonging to Tashiyuki Jujimura, of Santa Ana, also wrecked, are in the Hare garage here. Frank Lessig has a car belonging to Paul Lobo, 1335 East First street, of Santa Ana. This car was wrecked Sunday afternoon two miles west of here when a man by the name of Garcia, driving in off a dirt road, ran into the traffic on the boulevard in an attempt to get through at any price.

Much interest and enthusiasm was displayed here Friday afternoon, when the boys and girls on the school ball team played the boys and girls from the Seal Beach school. Westminster won both games. The following boys are on the first team here: Orel Hare, catcher; Kenneth Hazard, pitcher; Richard De La Cruz, Robert Bould and Bill Schmidt, first, second and third basemen; Charles Anderson, shortstop; Frank Loftis, Clifton Loftis and Frank Cruz, left, center and right fielders. The score for the boys was 6 to 8. The girls won 44 to 9. A return game will be played on the school diamond Thursday afternoon, when Magnolia team comes over.

FINE FOR CHILDREN

Give them a good start in life, with happy smiles and healthy little bodies. Children need a mild corrective occasionally to regulate stomach and bowels. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a safe vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. They tone up and regulate the eliminative tract. Not a nasty cathartic or a habit-forming medicine, but a safe pleasant remedy for constipation, sour stomach, torpid liver, bad breath, and similar disorders. Dr. Edwards, a widely known family physician of Ohio, prescribed these tablets for many years in his own practice. Children from six years up are greatly helped by them and like to take them. SWEET POTATO GROWERS WILL GATHER OCT. 29

BY RAYMOND ELLIS
Assistant Farm Advisor

Sweet potato growers of Orange county will have a chance to hear a discussion of problems of the industry at the field day which will be held on October 29.

This meeting will be held at the H. C. Hickman ranch, three miles west of Santa Ana on Fifth street, and will consist of both morning and afternoon sessions. The morning session will open at 9:30, while the afternoon program will begin at 1:30.

The storage of sweet potatoes is a very important problem, especially as it affects prices during the year. Some very interesting data has been prepared on relative price trends over the past 15 years and this information will be presented at the morning session, together with recommendations on storage houses and problems of storage of the product. The discussion of these problems will be led by Dr. J. T. Rosa of the division of truck crops, University of California.

During the afternoon there will be a discussion of sweet potato diseases and their control. A good part of this control can be accomplished by selection of clean seed. There will be a field demonstration to show the proper method of seed selection.

FENCING ART BEING TAUGHT SCHOOL GIRLS IN FULLERTON

Great Progress of Education Called to Mind by Present Study 'Wrinkles'

ORANGE HIGH HAS CLASS IN ARCHERY

Instead of Being Ruled by Walnut Sapling, Pupils Operate on Honor Basis

The recent announcement on the Junior Register page to the effect that high school girls in Fullerton had taken up fencing, as the latest wrinkle of modern high school education, has called to the minds of a number of Santa Ana persons the progress made in courses of study since the day of the little red schoolhouse, the tall fool's cap and the early spring treks of pollywogs and the first blushing violets.

It was pointed out that whereas modern boys and girls go to school in luxurious passenger coaches, their fare paid by the school district, enter school for a few moments and then adjourn to the swimming pool for a refreshing plunge, clothe themselves and hurry to a class illustrated by motion pictures or, perhaps, pipe organ playing, in the old days, the scholastic year consisted largely of occupying the hard seats for nine months of the year without more recreation than that afforded by a few skimp games of blindman's bluff or ring-around-the-rose at recess time.

Orange Teaches Archery

Fullerton high school teaches fencing. Archery is taught in Orange high school. Volley ball is a prominent sport in Garden Grove. The new high school in Huntington Beach has a special drama room, equipped with stage and lighting apparatus for the study and production of plays—these are the evidences of the modern trend of education, it was said, and afford the modern boy and girl every opportunity to develop his intellectual, aesthetic, physical and artistic tendencies.

Instead of being ruled by a schoolmaster well fortified with a walnut sapling, the present day student bodies operate on honor systems and, in some cases, nothing more than their word of honor is required in passing from one class to another.

Housekeeping Is Taught

In Fullerton high school, a special miniature bungalow has been provided, in which the students of the domestic science classes may

POPULATION AND INDUSTRIAL GAIN OF CALIFORNIA, CENTER OF FINANCIAL ACTIVITY, TOLD

In 1850 California had 92,597 residents and ranged twenty-ninth in population; at this time the population is above the 5,000,000 mark and the state stands sixth.

The population has increased 400 per cent in 35 years and the increase during the last five years has been greater than during the entire decade ending in 1920.

This increase in population has been accompanied by proportional growth in other lines, a growth which is continuous and based on fundamental conditions, according to the recent survey made for the Associated Telephone company.

California also is the commercial, financial and industrial center for 12 mountain states, which had a population of 3,336,101 in 1920 and which, themselves, showed an increase of 27 per cent during the 1910-1920 period.

Affected By War

Attention is called to the fact, however, that this decade covered the World war when population increase was affected. The same is true of the Pacific states, where the increase from 1910 to 1920 was 33 per cent as compared with 73 per cent during the previous 10 years.

After estimating a number of factors, the survey finds that California has a home market in the western portion of the United States which comprised not less than 11,000,000 residents and probably more.

It probably came as a surprise to easterners to know that California has a larger proportion of white population than the remainder of the United States. Due to the fact that many Indians, Japanese and Chinese live in this state, it is thought by many that they comprise a large element of the population.

As a matter of fact, Indians, Japanese and Chinese form but 3.6 per cent of the total, while the white population forms 95.3 per cent, as compared with 89 per cent for the entire United States. In this connection it also is interesting to note that the native whites of California form a larger proportion of the population than they do in Massachusetts.

Illiteracy Is Low

It also is worthy of comment that of the nation as a whole but California not only is less than that of the nation as a whole but also is less than that of Massachusetts and other older states.

The total current income of the state is $4,506,342,000, while its wealth is placed at $15,000,000,000. Comparing the wealth of California with that of Massachusetts, which has about the same population, it is found that this state has a per capita of $4007 while the Bay state has $3243. The aggregate wealth of the Pacific and Mountain states is placed at $35,000,000,000, of which this state has approximately 40 per cent.

California ranks ninth in the production of lumber and furnishes 100 per cent of the redwood, 45 per cent of the white fir and 95 per cent of the sugar pine. More than 25,000 wage earners in this industry receive $40,000,000 annually and produce lumber worth about $90,000,000.

California frequently is thought of as an agricultural state, but it is disclosed by this survey that

Road Overseer Cut By Grader Blade

C. B. Henry, road overseer for the Garden Grove district, was in the Anaheim sanitarium today, receiving treatment for injuries to his right foot, received yesterday while engaged in road work in the vicinity of Anaheim.

According to information received here, Henry was engaged in directing his men in certain road work when the road grader, on which he was standing, was started unexpectedly. The grader blade struck the right foot, breaking five bones and severely cutting the member.

Henry was on the operating table for more than an hour. It was said that it will be many weeks before the foot will be able to bear Henry's weight.

'WALTER CAMP' POPULAR BOOK, SAYS LIBRARIAN

With interest in football growing as the date for the Stanford U.S.C. game approaches, the book, "Walter Camp," by Harford Powell Jr., to be found in the city library, is gaining in popularity, according to Miss Jeannette McFadden, head librarian.

"Yellowstone Kelly," an autobiography by Luther S. Kelly, is another book that will be interesting to most persons. It is the story of Kelly's adventures in scouting throughout the northwest, in which he tells of his exploits in the U. S. army while campaigning against the Indians.

A curiously appealing book is "Mape, the World of Illusion," by Andre Maurois, which has been translated to the English by Eric Sutton. Mape, the name of an imaginary country, is made the location for three interesting stories, in which the reader is given glimpses of private lands of imagery which he thought existed only for himself.

AUDITOR VOICES OPPOSITION TO TAX EXEMPTION

W. C. Jerome Tells Rotary Club He Would Favor Refund or Pension Method

A general caution against exemptions from taxation was voiced at yesterday's meeting of the Santa Ana Rotary club by County Auditor W. C. Jerome.

"We have gone a long way with exemptions already," said Jerome. "Whenever there is an exemption, that exemption is spread out over the rest of the taxpayers. I'd rather see the state do away with all exemptions and then, by some other method of pensioning or refund, make it up to those with just claims."

Jerome was one of several speakers at yesterday's Rotary, at which the 28 amendments, to be voted upon next Tuesday, were discussed.

The names of the speakers, the amendments discussed by each speaker and his recommendation follow:

Roland E. Dye recommended yes on No. 1, Veterans' welfare bond act, and No. 12, tax exemption for veterans and others.

Urges Yes on No. 17

R. C. Smedley strongly urged voting yes on No. 17, which is for the study of the Bible in schools, and no on No. 6, the proposed repeal of the Wright act, and no on No. 9, which proposes to legalize racetrack gambling.

Decidedly, D. Eymann Huff urged yes be voted on No. 3, which proposes a two-cent tax on oleomargarine.

W. L. Deimling advised affirmative vote for No. 7, which puts short line steam railroads on the same basis of taxation with electric roads, and advised strongly against No. 18, the water and power act.

Supervisor S. H. Finley advised against voting for No. 4, which measure proposes to raise the gasoline tax from two cents to three cents, and advised voting for No. 8, the measure that proposes to allocate money by highway districts and to take $5,000,000 a year from the state treasury for new road construction.

Finley pointed out the advisability of voting yes on No. 22, which exempts young timber from taxation, thus encouraging reforestation.

County Auditor W. C. Jerome advised as follows: Yes on No. 2, which proposes to tax motor transportation the same as railroad; yes on No. 5, which proposes raises in salaries of several state officers; yes on No. 13, which extends the absent voting privilege; yes on No. 15, which will allow classification of school districts and give better legislation; no on school district tax; no on No. 25, which proposes tax exemption for cemeteries and crematoriums.

Advices Passing No. 10

D. K. Hammond, principal of the Santa Ana high school, strongly urged the passage of No. 10, which is a bonding measure for the University of California, for the new Westwood university and for state buildings in Sacramento and Los Angeles. Hammond opposed No. 11 on the ground that private schools ought not be exempted.

Attorney A. W. Ruffan recommended: yes on No. 14, which, he said, would help corporations, although it would reduce some lawyers' fees; yes on No. 16, which establishes $3000 as the amount the state shall pay each superior judge's salary; no on No. 19, pensioning judges; yes on No. 24, having to do with irrigation districts; yes on No. 26, which will give appellate courts the right to finally decide many appeal cases; yes on No. 27, a measure to establish a judicial council that will systematize the business of courts.

T. E. Stephenson advised yes on No. 21, which allows each bond on a ballot to pass if it gets two-thirds of the vote cast on that measure; yes on No. 23, which allows election at a primary; no on No. 20, which is the Los Angeles reapportionment measure, with both houses on a population basis; yes on No. 28, the farm bureau or federal plan for reapportionment.

A. C. Bowers presided at yesterday's meeting.

MORE BOARDING HOMES ARE NOT NECESSARY NOW

While there are as many as 29 duly licensed family boarding homes for children in Orange county, only nine of these have children in their care, thus eliminating the necessity for licensing additional homes at the present time, according to Dr. V. G. Presson, county health officer.

A family boarding home for children, according to the definition given in the political code, is a private family home which accepts one or more children to board with or without compensation.

Requirements Outlined

Outlining the minimum requirements for such homes, Dr. Presson said that since the family boarding home is primarily a home, the number of children in it shall not exceed that number which it is customary to think of as constituting a normal family group. He added, however, that no home is allowed to take more than six children. For the same reason, not more than two children under two years of age are allowed in any family boarding home.

Touching upon family conditions of those applying for license to conduct boarding homes, Dr. Presson said that the foster mother must be of suitable age and temperament to care for children. The mental and physical health of each member of the family must be good, he declared.

Must Be No Defectives

Another requirement insisted upon by the county health authorities is that there shall be no mentally defective person in the family.

Neither will any children be placed in a home where male roomers or boarders are accepted. To insure the best possible homes for neglected or abandoned children, whether placed in such places by the county authorities or private parties, no license will be issued to applicants not in a position to maintain a minimum standard of living without the income derived from the board of children.

President Is to Talk Over Radio

R. G. Adams Grinds Mirror And Lens for Own Instrument

Building a telescope—a good one—is no little job for an expert, but this intricate work has been expertly performed by R. G. Adams, Fullerton automobile dealer, who has mounted the instrument in his back yard, at 224 West Malvern avenue, where nightly he entertains friends interested in observing the stars through one of the largest telescopes in Southern California.

Little or nothing was known about astronomy or the construction of telescopes by Adams until four or five years ago, when he heard an interesting lecture on these subjects over the radio. He immediately started a course of study, continuing over a period of several years.

As he progressed with his studies, Adams determined to have a telescope of his own in order that he might have first hand information of the subject. He was discouraged by many when he at first told his friends that he intended to build a telescope and that furthermore he intended grinding his own mirror and lens. But he was resolved in his idea to accomplish what he had set out to do.

He studied books on lens grinding and then set to work. With care and patience, he ground the mirror. He would work steadily until the glass became hot and then would be compelled to allow the glass to cool for two hours. After months of work, when he thought the mirror almost completed, he took it to the Mt. Wilson observatory, where he showed the results of his labor to Mr. Kinney, expert mirror grinder. Kinney carefully inspected the work and informed Adams that the mirror was almost perfect.

Not satisfied, Adams insisted that the defects, if any, be pointed out to him. This done, Adams continued his work. Several trips were made to Mt. Wilson, where the mirror was inspected and finally found nearly perfect as could be accomplished by human hands.

Then the result of his work was put aside while he started work on the frame mounting. Part of this work was done at the Fullerton union high school, where machinery was available to Adams.

Finally the work was completed, the mirror installed and the finished telescope in the back yard of the Adams residence. It was mounted on concrete. The telescope was complete in every detail. The instrument is of the open type—90 inches long, with a 10-inch mirror. The mirror magnifies 360 times. A small motor is used to counteract the motion of the earth while observations are being made, the mounting being set in a position exactly parallel to the polar axis.

The builder and student is keenly interested in the observations being made of the planet Mars, which the latter part of this week will be in the best position for observation than at any time in recent centuries.

FOUR SEEKING PRESIDENCY OF EXCHANGE CLUB

The Santa Ana Exchange club yesterday nominated men for the club offices to be filled at the annual election and set Friday, December 3, as the date for the annual inaugural banquet and ball, to be held at St. Ann's Inn.

One of the features of the annual installation of officers will be presentation of "The Spirit of Exchange" in motion pictures, with members of the club in the cast. The committee for the party is composed of Art Bowman, Don Juden, Irvin Doyle, Ed Marble, Stanley Clem and Leonard Baker.

Floyd Croddy has served the club in an efficient manner in the last year in the capacity of president and his successor will be one of the four men, Art Bowman, Stanley Clem, Frank McCarter or Ridley Smith, the quartet being placed in nomination.

Dr. Roy Fortier and G. K. Seovel were nominated for vice president. Gene Douglas (incumbent) and Leonard Baker will fight it out for the secretaryship and Charles Pritchard and William Peeling will oppose each other in the contest to secure control of the club funds as treasurer. Pritchard now holds the position.

Indorsement was given the proposal to change the name of the state highway through the county to Valencia boulevard and to make it one of the outstanding highways of the Southland by uniform planting of trees along its course.

E. L. Hafer, of the Santa Monica club, was a guest yesterday, and urged that Santa Ana send a representative delegation to the costume party to be held at the Edgewood club, Santa Monica, Saturday night. The event is designed to bring Exchangeites of the Southland into closer relationship. Clubs in the beach district are to be hosts.

Lend County Car To P. T. A. Women

Mrs. A. P. Nelson, president of the Orange County Federation of Women's Clubs, appeared before the county supervisors yesterday and "borrowed" a county automobile, with which to entertain prominent clubwomen, expected here November 19, when the Orange county federation plays hostess to the southern district federation, covering five counties. The southern district federation will meet in Santa Ana, November 16, 17, 18 and 19. Mrs. Nelson said, November 19 has been designated as "Play day," and will be set aside for an automobile tour of the county.

ELECTRIC FIRM PREPARES FOR EXTENSION OF OUTFALL LINE

Company Is Ready to Start Task of Moving Outlet Further Out Into Ocean

CHANGE DEMANDED BY HEALTH BOARD

With No Unforseen Conditions, Completion Is Expected by June 1, 1927

The Butte Electric company, of San Francisco, today was making preparations for starting its battle with the ocean, which will be incidental to the firm's contract for extending the joint outfall sewer 2400 feet further into the ocean.

The outlet of the sewer line is immediately west of the present outlet of the Santa Ana river into the ocean, the outlet having been made as a part of the improvements in Newport bay under the county issue of bonds for the harbor.

The San Francisco concern has undertaken the task at a consideration of $173,620, it having been awarded the contract as the lowest bidder of a number of firms submitting proposals at the time bids were called for.

Must Tear Out Pier

Preliminary to starting of the struggle with ocean, the firm has had to tear out the pier erected for the installation of the original outlet, which extends only 600 feet into the ocean. Construction of a new pier will be necessary to carry on the work and it was expected today that pier construction work would start in the immediate future, as the work of demolishing the old pier has been about completed.

The extension is being made on demand of the state board of health, the present outlet not being in water of sufficient depth to dissipate sewage discharged. The situation created a condition for a mile or two on each side of the outlet that made the beach unavailable for recreation purposes. At the same time, a health menace was created and the state board of health stepped in and directed extension of the sewer line a sufficient distance to make the point of discharge in not less than 40 feet of water.

Have Until June 1, 1927

The health board gave the cities participating in the joint enterprise until June 1, 1927, in which to comply with its order.

In the opinion of Nat H. Neff, city engineer of Santa Ana, the contract will be completed by that time, unless unexpected conditions cause delay.

Construction of the original line was beset with many obstacles and situations developed that delayed its completion. The original contractors failed utterly in getting the line completed and the cities took over the work and completed it.

ORDER LAND SUIT FILED ON BRIEFS

The case of N. T. Edwards, state highway commissioner, and A. C.
Fletcher, Olive rancher, who brought suit in superior court against the Hedstrom corporation, to set aside a conveyance of property to the corporation from Gustav Hedstrom, has been ordered submitted on briefs to Judge H.
G. Ames.Edwards and Fletcher, it was said, had secured a court judgment for approximately $4000 against Gustav Hedstrom and, in connection with the judgment, had attached a 20-acre walnut and citrus grove, situated west of Anaheim. Then it was found that Hedstrom had transferred the ranch to the Hedstrom corporation.Edwards and Fletcher then sought to have the conveyance set aside on the ground that it was a fraudulent attempt to evade the judgment.Attorneys Head, Rutan and Scovel represent the plaintiffs. Attorneys Thomas L. Clay and S. M.
Davis appeared for the defendants.

AT THE THEATERS

Joseph Schildkraut, David Butler and Julia Faye in a scene from "Meet the Prince," film now showing at the Yost Broadway.Margaret Livingston and Harrison Ford in a scene from "Hell's Four Hundred," current attraction at the West Coast-Walker theater.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

Julia Faye, the delightful Cecil
B. DeMille featured player who achieved a great triumph in "The Volga Boatman," in which she was seen as a Russian revolutionist, a role she vested with artistic realism, appears in another Russian role, that of a princess, in "Meet the Prince," a splendid comedy drama featuring Joseph Schildkraut, Marguerite De La Motte, Vera Steadman and David Butler.When "The Volga Boatman" was presented in New York where it was shown to immense crowds for several months, Miss Faye's performance of the Tartar gypsy girl was greatly admired. Her flair for comedy won her many new admirers and this same flair is displayed by her in "Meet the Prince," a new picture which will be on view at the Yost Broadway theater tonight.Miss Faye's role again offers her an opportunity to display her sense of humor. Her mockery is ventured upon the American neuro-tische, her position being that of a Russian Princess, impoverished to the point of seeking a livelihood as a professional tutor to the unskilled in etiquette and social grace. Towards the end of the picture she falls in love with one of her pupils and wins him.

WEST COAST-WALKER

"Hell's Four Hundred," a dramatic screen adaptation of Vaughn Kester's powerful novel, "The Just and the Unjust," starring Margaret Livingston, comes to the West-Coast-Walker theater tonight only.
It is the story of a little cabaret entertainer caught in the whirlpool of Broadway. Instilled with the desire for luxury, she decides to get it in the easiest way—by marrying money. The drama of her disillusionment makes for an intensely powerful picture, interject-ed with comedy that blends into perfect entertainment.A fine cast has been assembled to support Miss Livingston in "Hell's Four Hundred." Among the players are Harrison Ford, Wallace McDonald, Henry Kolker, Marceline Day, Rodney Hildebrand and many others of equal fame.Tonight is the regular "Gift-Nite" at the West Coast-Walker, and Manager C. E. Walker announces that a beautiful assortment of expensive presents will again be given away to the lucky winners in accordance with the West Coast policy. Ray Watts and his versatile band are featured on the stage, and while they have arranged a snappy program of music, we are led to believe that a comedy surprise will be the feature of the bill.

MURPHY'S THEATER

Opening Sunday night at Murphy's theater at Orana, "The Unseen Way," scored a great success with a packed house."The Unseen Way" is a peculiar sort of play, being simply full of laughs, a strong element of suspense, and yet many gripping dramatic situations that equal or excel anything the writer has seen in quite some time.The play is exceptionally well cast and all of the parts are good ones, giving the actors some very good opportunities to display their talents. The largest cast that has played at the Orana theater is as follows: Marie by Martha Gibbs, Mattson by Harrison King, Alice by Miss Murphy, Bobby by Jimmie Malone, Betty by Marlan Sutherland, Dr. Feodor Merski by Herbert M. Shelley, Mrs. Holt by Austa
Pierce, Billy by Jack Marloe, Mr.
Holt by George Hathison, Amir Din by Mr. Booth and a chauffeur by Jimmie Worsley.

WEST END THEATER

"The Sea Hawk," adapted from Rafael Sabatini's stirring novel of Barbary corsairs, is showing at the West End theater."The Sea Hawk" is the crowning achievement of a season of brilliant screen dramas, a play that registers its magnitude in every scene and with such force that it is not likely that local screen followers will cease to talk about it very soon.Milton Sills plays the title role, or rather the dual principal character in a most appealing manner.
Sills' characters represent the most dominant individuals ever brought before a camera and he makes the most of every scene, reaching dramatic heights which should elevate him to a position few others might occupy.

YOST THEATER

"The Sporting Lover," starring Conway Tearle, is a fast-moving story of love, horse-racing and the war. It moves like a flash. Sitting in the Yost theater last night, where the picture had its premiere, we had a feeling as of being swept irresistibly along.The horse-racing episode, showing the English Derby, is a sheer masterpiece of film photography.
It is thrilling. One has an intense impulse to rise to one's feet and cheer.Conway Tearle plays the role of Captain Terance Connaughton, an Irish army officer who found in the trench life a vacation from his domestic worries about inher-

TWO HOMES MADE HAPPY

By Women Who Used Lydia
E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I think it is the most wonderful medicine I ever tried." is the statement made by Mrs. Goldie Shoup of May View, Illinois. She declares that after taking the Compound she is in better health than before.

Mrs. J. Storms of 29 Lane Street, Paterson, N. J., writes: "I can not speak too highly of your medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."

These statements were taken from two enthusiastic letters which tell of the help that has been received from using the Vegetable Compound.

Both Mrs. Shoup and Mrs. Storms were in a run-down condition which caused them much unhappiness. When women are suffering from lack of strength and from weakness, their own life and that of their family is affected. When they feel well and strong and are able to do their household easily, happy homes are the result.

Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?

Beautify Your Lawn

Now is the time to do it!

Get a Bermuda rake and get busy. After the lawn is thoroughly raked—a few pounds of Blue Grass and White Clover seed will make a new lawn out of it.

The judicious application of a few sacks of "Grozi". Pulverized Sheep Manure or Dried Blood will do a great deal to restore an old lawn to its natural beauty. Clover and blue grass, planted now, has a chance to get started growing for about four months before the bermuda will make any further growth. DO IT NOW.

We have some dandy Bermuda cutter rakes, a fine quality of grass seed; and we surely sell lots of lawn fertilizers.

242 MEMBERS OF ELKS REPLY TO ROLL CALL

"Bills" to the number of 242 responded to their names when called last night at the annual roll call of Santa Ana lodge, No. 794, B. P. O. E.

The occasion was made a "homecoming" event for a number of members, some being present who have not been in the lodge room for many months.

William McClain, of Los Angeles, the first secretary of the organization, was among those present. McClain was to have been present at a meeting held recently with all the living past exalted rulers of the order in attendance.

With the name of A. J. Klunk, past exalted ruler, inscribed on the tablet of members of the local lodge who have passed to their final reward, the list of dead today stood at 95. Klunk was at the meeting when all living past exalted rulers were here four weeks ago, and died suddenly two weeks ago.

Following the lodge session, a program of entertainment by professional entertainers of Los Angeles was offered for the amusement of the big gathering. L. A. Schlesinger was chairman of the entertainment committee.

Saturday night, the lodge will hold its first dance of a series, ranging for the winter months. A room on the lower floor of the clubhouse has been especially prepared for dancing purposes.

Cards also will be included in the program of entertainment. Pointing out that only Elks and their wives or sweethearts will be admitted, William McKay, exalted ruler, said today that Elks visiting in the city would be welcome. The evening's program will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Capital Letter

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—French debt settlement will be one of the first things for congress to take up when it meets in December.

Election will have no bearing on the question, for the same old 69th congress will be on the job until March. Before it adjourns, in all probability it will have ratified or rejected the tentative agreement between the American World War Foreign Debt commission and the last set of negotiators from France.

All the signs are that the compact, throwing off about half the debt, will continue to have very hard sledding in the senate.

If anything, the last season's displays of anti-American feeling abroad have served to consolidate national legislative sentiment in opposition to any further concessions on the debt settlement proposition.

The pending agreement having been framed, on the American side, by a Republican administration, the Republican "regulars" probably will quite generally support it. Senate "insurgency," however, will be quite as generally against it and there may even be "regular" dissenters.

This will mean the bargain's rejection unless the administration can get help from the Democrats. The talk of Democratic senators like Pat Harrison and Tradeaux H. Caraway doesn't sound much like it.

"Pay or repudiate the whole debt," is the Harrison and Caraway idea of what France ought to be told.

The fact that the pair actually were in France throughout the summer places them in a position to pose as authorities, and perhaps the more effectively combat the cancellation arguments of fellow Democrats like ex-Governor Cox, of Ohio, and ex-Secretary of War Newton D. Baker.

Besides, Harrison and Caraway have senate votes and Cox and Baker haven't.

The settlement is particularly unfortunate in having two such men as the junior Mississippi senator and the senior from Arkansas in opposition to it.

With the exception of Senator Reed, of Missouri—and they'll have his help, too—though he won't be able to boast of so recent a visit to the seat of hostilities—Harrison and Caraway are the most pungent Democratic debaters in the upper house of congress.

The method of Harrison, a humorist of the first class, is to laugh to death a proposition he doesn't like.

Caraway skins it alive and leaves it quivering. No proposition looks its best under such circumstances. Anything that Harrison and Caraway overlook Reed will attend to.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who had more than any other single American to say about the French deal and wants it endorsed, to get it off his hands, has also been in France.

He'll have his remarks to make—not on the senate floor, of course, but in statements that are sure to get plenty of publicity.

Mellon is one of the world's foremost financial authorities and his opinions can't but be respected. At the same time, his utterances haven't the pep of Harrison's, Caraway's and Reed's.

He's cold and statistical. He's read by highbrows. They appeal to the emotions and are listened to by everybody.

All of which isn't to say positively that the French debt settlement agreement won't be ratified. It may squeak through, but all the best Washington authorities agree that its present prospects are very do-ubtful.

Only 18 per cent of the population is engaged in this industry. Manufacturing and mechanical industries occupy about 29 per cent of the workers; trade cares for 14 per cent; domestic and personal service, 10 per cent; transportation, less than nine per cent.

It also may come as a surprise to learn that 2,413,710 persons in the state engaged in gainful occupations in 1920, only 35,723 were engaged in mining while there were 63,185 in the public service and 227,317 in domestic and personal service.

Prisoner Gains On Jail Diet Of Bread and Water

TEKAHAMA, Neb., Oct. 27.—Ray Carson, Burt county farmer, completed his 60-day "bread and water" sentence in county jail here yesterday and discovered that he had gained six pounds in weight as a result of eating the limited diet.

"I'm feeling fine," Carson told the United Press, as he walked out of the jail into the fresh air. "Darned if that bread and water diet didn't put weight on me."

Carson weighed 118 at 1 p. m., when he was released.

Thomas Nelson, a friend of Carson, who received a like sentence after both men pleaded guilty before County Judge Orville Chaff to violating the prohibition laws, will complete his sentence Sunday.

From his jail cell, Nelson said that he was feeling fine, but was tired of the bread and water diet.

Students Will Be Assisted By Fullerton Club

FULLERTON, Oct. 27.—The establishment of an educational fund to assist boys and girls in their high school and college work was perfected yesterday by the Fullerton Kiwanis club at which time $300 was raised.

Several cases of merit were told to the Kiwanians at the luncheon. Each member was requested to contribute to a fund to provide a loan to be made to the student.

It was decided to make the fund a revolving loan by which the student given assistance would be expected to pay the money back to the club when able. In this manner, the fund would be kept going from year to year.

The Rev. Graham Hunter suggested that the fund could be increased by organizing a community concert. Other members of the club made talks as to the best method of procedure.

100 Americans On Isle of Pines Are Injured by Storm

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—In addition to the three Americans already reported killed by the Isle of Pines hurricane, 100 Americans were injured, eight seriously.

Capt. H. Woodward, commanding the U. S. S. Milwaukee, reported, after a personal inspection of all American communities in the northern two-thirds of the island.

Twenty-two citizens of other nations were killed and 100 injured, 40 seriously, Woodward said. Thirty-seven, including six Americans, have been sent to Havana for treatment.

Property damage was estimated by Woodward at $2,000,000. He said 65 per cent of the American homes and business houses on the island were destroyed.

At a recent service, the congregation pledged $2500 to the building fund.

GATHERING OF SCHOOL BOARD IS POSTPONED

Because of the fact that E. T. McFadden, a school trustee, is out of the city, there was no meeting last night of the Santa Ana board of education. Listed among matters to have been taken up at last night's regular meeting was the resignation of Marshall L. Keeler, school trustee, who, owing to new business arrangements, is removing to Long Beach.

Alex Brownridge, president of the board, in announcing the postponement of the board meeting, explained that it was the desire of the board to have all its members present before any action was taken looking toward the election of a successor to Keeler. He also intimated that the board wanted sufficient time to acquaint itself with the status and qualifications of those whose names have been submitted for consideration.

It also was announced that Mrs. T. E. Stephenson, former president of the Santa Ana Elbell club, has requested that her name be withdrawn from the list of those under consideration.

The boys are given the opportunity of learning all about the insides of their automobiles in the auto shop classes. Nearly every Orange county high school has automobile classes.

While to some, who went to school in the more primitive days, the fencing and dancing classes may seem a bit unusual, educators stressed the point that education, to be of the greatest value, must keep step with the very latest developments in the world at large and exercise every opportunity to equip high school students to meet the exigencies of present-day existence and bread winning, which most folks admit are hazardous ventures at the most.

Miss Celestine White, Tustin girl, who is attending the University of Southern California, at Los Angeles, has recently been selected to sing with the women's glee club.

She will sing first alto. More than 100 women tried out for positions on the club and 50 were selected to form the permanent club. Harold Roberts, director of the department of musical organizations; J. Arthur Lewis, director of both the men's and women's glee clubs, and Edith Lingerfelt, manager of the women's glee club, sponsored the tryouts.

HI-Y CLUBS HOLD MEETING IN S. A.

The first meeting of the Federated Hi-Y clubs was held this week at the Y. M. C. A., opening with dinner, at 6:30 p. m.

In addition to Santa Ana Hi-Y boys, delegations were present from Tustin, Garden Grove and Huntington Beach.

Musical numbers included a cornet solo by Raymond Hutchins and a saxophone number by Roy Grist, accompanied by Miss Hutchins.

Fred Burlew gave a talk on his experiences and observations at the world conference of boys, held last summer in Helsingfors. He spoke of a number of the topics that were discussed at the conference, particularly on race relationships and world brotherhood.

He was greatly impressed with the manner in which the boys of various races mingled during the conference period and the friendships that were developed between them, he said.

Coach Oliver, of Poly high school, spoke on "Playing the Game of Life Squarely." He took a decided stand for honesty and fairness in all relations in life—in sports, in business, in school, in work and in play. He stated that he never had, in his experience, known anyone who won out in the end by unfair tactics. Some advantage might be gained temporarily by dishonesty and unsportsmanlike means, but in the end, the fair, square player is the one who reaches the goal, he pointed out.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Aaron Burr

Sketches by Redner
Synopsis by Braucher

Burr's hardihood, even at the age of 70, was remarkable for a man who had such a reputation for profligacy. In 1826 he took a 45-hour journey by stage to Albany, with time taken out only for a meal. "The night was uncomfortable," he wrote, "the curtains torn and flying about. . . . Came neither fatigued or sleepy."

Burr always had been full of schemes, and late in life he tried to promote various speculative and inventive projects.

His interests ranged from a new process for constructing false teeth to the manufacture of vinegar out of wood.

But even Aaron Burr was mortal. In 1833, at the age of 77, Burr suffered a stroke of paralysis. He lay, ill and helpless, in his office, which was the only place then that he could call home. A woman whose father had been a British officer and had known Burr, cared for him in her boarding house for two years.

THE TINYMITES
BY HAL COCHRAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The hills rang out with voices clear. The sort of shouts that bring good cheer. The cart the Tynmites had built was sure a great success. As Mister Squirrel jumped through space, a smile broke out on every face, and Scouty loudly shouted, "This is great. I must confess."

It seemed that they were going fast, for trees and things went whizzing past. Each Tynmite was hanging on as tight as he could hold. They hit the humpy spots and then flew in the air and back again. Then Carpy said, "We're heading north. The air is getting cold."

Perhaps the strangest sort of stunt was Scouty riding in front. He sat upon the squirrel's back with legs adangling down. He'd sway to this side; then to that, and nearly lost his Boy Scout hat. In fact the others thought him quite as funny as a clown.

The trip to him was rather rough. He shouted, "Say, I've had enough."

Does someone want to come up here and let me in the cart? "Course not a Tynmite agreed. "Why, gee," they said, "at such a speed, we surely would be bumped until it shook us all apart."

And then, what happened? Meroy, me. The squirrel started up a tree. When Scouty saw this coming, he was much to scared to peep. The rest were taken by surprise, and when they came to realize that they were going to have a fall, 'twas too late to leap.

Of all the falls that ever came, well, this one surely was a shame. The cart went toasty-turvy, and the squirrel got away. The Tynmites fell in a heap, but still there was no cause to weep. 'Twas just a queer and sudden way to end a perfect day.

Queer Quirks of -NATURE-

NIGHT-SHIFT POLICEMAN, BANE OF INSECTS

By ARTHUR N. PACK

When the lengthening shadows have given away to gathering darkness, the bat begins his day.

Slipping noiselessly from his hiding place in some thick-leaved tree, behind the closed shutters of a deserted building, or from the dusty recesses of some little-frequented attic, he launches into the air, intent on satisfying his growing hunger.

First, he usually seeks the nearest water, and, dipping gracefully to the surface, slips his fill, for his has been a dry bed-chamber.

Then he starts his hunting for his winged prey, for with all of the species of temperate climates, peculiar species of vermin—for practically none of earth's creatures are free from some annoying parasite—bats do not carry bedbugs.

Their entire life is spent in man's service, for without them and their fellow hunters, it is altogether probable that man long ago would have succumbed to the attacks of his myriad-breeding foes, the insects. All day long, from early day to dark, the birds wage ceaseless war when darkness falls, the friendly bat joins the night shift.

Flapper Fanny Says

and with all except a few of the tropics, living insects alone are eaten.

Though much has been written about this diet, the fact remains that very little is positively known about the groups of insects most commonly taken. Many moths are secured and many believe that mosquitoes in large numbers fall prey to those tireless policemen of the night.

CONTENTMENT

Money and fame and health alone
Are not enough for a man to own,
For healthy men are heard to sigh
And men of wealth go frowning by.

And one with fame will play his part
With a troubled mind and a heavy heart.
If these three treasures no joy possess,
How shall a man find happiness?

Health comes first in the famous three,
But cripples can smile, as we all must see,
Fame is sweet, as we all must own,
But the happiest hearts are not widely known.

Money is good, when it's truly earned,
But peace with fortune is not concerned,
For the bravest and loveliest souls
Have little of silver and gold to show.

Yet there must be a way to the goal we seek,

A path to peace for the strong
And weak,
And it must be open for all to fare,

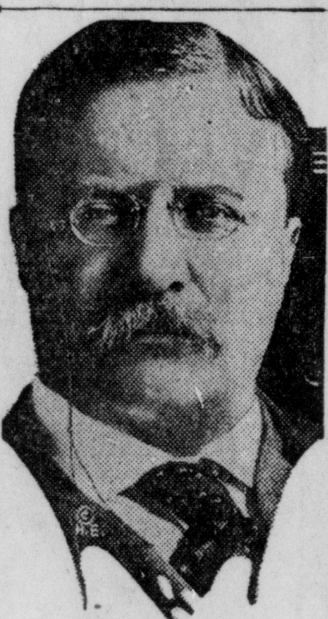

In spite of life's sorrows and days of care,
For those who have suffered the most the while
Look out on the world with the tenderest smile,

And those who have little of wealth to boast
Are often the ones that we love the most.

So I fancy the joy which men strive to win
Is born of something which lies within,
A strain of courage no care can break,
A love for beauty no thief can take,

For they are the happiest souls of earth,
Who gather the treasures of gentle worth,
The pride of neighbors, the faith of friends
And a mind at peace when the sun descends.

Pan-Broiled Sausage With Candied Apples

One pound sausage, 4 large apples, 1 cup vinegar, 2 cups brown sugar, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, cracker dust.

Small sausages or link sausage should be used. Dip sausage in boiling water to cover and let simmer for half an hour. Drain and put into a hot frying pan. Prick in several places with a fork and fry for 30 minutes, turning frequently. Drain off fat as necessary. Make a syrup of the vinegar, sugar and spices. Pare apples, remove cores and cut in rounds

HANDS AND GLOVES

With November days almost at hand and mid-winter not so very far off, one problem becomes important. That is, how to keep the hands soft and smooth and white during the cold weather.

Gloves and lotions will do it. My honey-almond combination will bleach the hands and keep the skin fine and there are dozens and dozens of good and not expensive lotions on the market. Glycerine and rose water is good, half and half, well shaken up. Glycerine, cucumber juice, and rose water, or glycerine, lemon juice and rose water, a third of each, are two other variations. Vanishing cream, always of the best quality, is excellent if rubbed into the hands at bedtime. And the nails should be rubbed full of greasy cold cream every night and the cuticle pushed back; this is more important in winter than in summer.

About gloves. Thin French kid or suede is little use as protection, though better than nothing, and a tight glove is worse than useless for it impedes the circulation and causes a lot of troubles, the least of which is a red nose. Besides, those snug thin gloves which cling to the hand so and button tightly around the wrist, are rather ugly. They show all the bad points of the hand, having no shape really of their own, they pinch the hand a trifle and show it off, looking pinched.

Fortunately, the styles have changed. The loose wrist is infinitely more becoming, it makes the hand look several times smaller, it hides the one part that is almost always awkward looking, the place where the hand and wrist join. Fancy cuffs, if they are not too fancy, are becoming for the same reason. And thick suede and thick

Long Beach Paves for Tomorrow's Traffic This Way

Six years ago local authorities of Long Beach realized that they must plan their paving programs to take care of the ever swelling flood of motor traffic.

To meet the situation they began building concrete streets definitely designed to take care of traffic developments in each section of the city.

Paving on the secondary through streets is heavier than in the residential sections. On the main boulevards it is super-heavy; heavy enough to withstand the peak traffic of today—and of tomorrow.

No wonder the cities of the Golden State are building more and more concrete streets every year; streets directly linked with California's thousands of miles of concrete roads.

And Long Beach, in company with these forward-looking communities, is setting a standard of paving service and economy which it will pay any town or city to investigate without delay.

Property owners, as well as local authorities, are invited to write this office for detailed facts about the experience of Long Beach with concrete street pavement. No obligation. Also ask for your copy of our free booklet on "Concrete Streets."

WEEVIL CURES TO BE SOUGHT BY COMMITTEE

Special Pepper Growers Division to Be Formed In County Farm Bureau

By RAYMOND ELLIS
Assistant Farm Advisor

Garden Grove was the scene of a very important pepper growers and buyers meeting on Thursday, October 21. The men were called together for the purpose of discussing plans to control the pepper weevil in Orange county.

To start the meeting, J. C. Elmore, entomologist of the U. S. department of agriculture was introduced. He discussed the work and life history of the insect. He said that the pepper weevil is a first cousin to the cotton boll weevil and its work is much the same on the pepper as the work of the latter on the cotton. It was also brought out that the pepper weevil only attacked the pepper, but that it hibernated in debris of any kind. Elmore also stated that by actual count, each female weevil laid from 300 to 500 eggs during a season, showing that it would not take very many over-wintering adults to cause considerable damage during one crop.

Roy Campbell, another U. S. department of agriculture entomologist, followed Elmore, giving some of the history of the local infestation and emphasizing its seriousness. He recommended very strongly that the growers get together in some sort of an organization, start a strenuous cleanup campaign, and also lend some assistance to those who are experimenting on control measures. Campbell also said that they had made some favorable progress on the control of the weevil by dusting with calcium arsenate and sodium flu-silicate, but did not recommend either one as an absolute cure.

After these two men had talked, a motion was made, seconded and carried that a pepper growers division of the Orange County farm bureau be organized and that a committee of seven growers and buyers be appointed to map out a campaign to control this pest. The committee appointed was E. J. Juratsch, Long Beach; H. Nelson, Santa Ana; J. A. Knapp, Garden Grove; R. E. Green, Garden Grove; C. C. Taylor, Santa Ana; H. Tammure, Huntington Beach and M. Sasaki, Huntington Beach.

The above named committee will meet on Thursday, October 28, to map out further plans for the fight. They have already planned a growers field meeting at Talbert for 1:30 p. m., Wednesday, November 3.

ORANGE PRUNING TO BE EXPLAINED

"What is considered proper pruning for orange trees?" This is a common question asked of the agricultural extension service, and to meet the inquiry in a practical way, a field demonstration has been scheduled for Saturday, October 30, 10 a. m. Only one meeting for Orange county will be held on orange pruning this year, according to a statement from the farm advisor's office, because the subject has been quite thoroughly covered in previous demonstrations.

"There has been a considerable change in the growers' attitude towards pruning during the last two or three years," says H. E. Wahlberg, farm advisor.

"It has tended to more conservative methods. Data and packing house records show that moderately pruned groves are more productive than heavily pruned trees. Our endeavor has been to put this message over to the grower by means of practical demonstrations. Several local groves show the effect of excessive pruning as compared with light pruning in their packing house returns. One grower of ten acres estimates that his heavy pruning cost him over $4000 in loss of fruit and besides the cost of the pruning operation itself."

The demonstration of pruning methods will be held at the Mabury ranch, near the corner of Tustin avenue and Fruit street, two miles east of Santa Ana, Saturday, October 30, 10 a. m. W. R. Schoonover, citrus specialist, will be in attendance. All growers are invited.

Champion Biddy Lays 1174th Egg; Dies On Own Yard

PONTANA, Calif., Oct. 27.—Queen of Fontana, record-breaking hen, was found dead under an orange tree in her private courtyard at the poultry plant of the Fontana Farms company here shortly after she had laid her 1174th egg. Death was due to natural causes, according to the two experts in charge of the hen and poultry plant.

Two weeks ago, the Queen completed her fifth year of egg production with a new world's mark of 1167 eggs. Compared with the average production of a hen in the two years of its laying life of 270 eggs. All of the Queen's eggs were used for hatching, her owners declaring that she paid 12 per cent on an investment of $10,000 during her lifetime.

IMPERIAL WILL YIELD BIGGEST LETTUCE CROP

EL CENTRO, Oct. 27.—The great Imperial valley is preparing to harvest winter lettuce from 34,297 acres this season, according to a recent survey made by B. A. Harrigan, horticultural commissioner, and his deputies.

The land planted this season exceeds that of last year, which was a record season, by approximately 500 acres. It means that with the beginning of December, valley lettuce will start to the markets throughout the United States and Canada and continue until early in April.

Some planters expect to have small shipments of the product ready for Thanksgiving markets. Nearly 100 distributing firms will be active in the lettuce deal in Imperial valley this year. The horticultural commissioner's survey report shows that the largest acreage of lettuce this season is controlled by the Sawdye & Hunt company, with a total of 3200 acres.

The Farmers Produce company of Brawley is growing 1800 acres and the American Fruit Growers have 1283 acres. Other large operators are Joseph Gentile company, S. A. Gerrard and company, Miller-Cummings company and A. Arena and company.

Holtville this year has gone far toward appropriating the title of "lettuce capital of Imperial valley" from Brawley. Nearly 10,000 acres of lettuce are being grown in the vicinity of Holtville and much of this is on ground that has heretofore been growing alfalfa for many years. This sort of ground is considered the most suitable for successful vegetable growing.

Report from other competing lettuce districts in the United States indicate unfavorable conditions, which works to the benefit of Imperial valley growers.

The arrival here last week of several buyers who are usually interested in other districts at this season is taken as an indication of a strong interest in the valley product. Several weeks ago independent growers sought in vain for capital to finance their crops. These same growers are now being offered loans by representatives of distributing firms in return for which agreements are to be made that the product shall be sold through the firms making the advances.

It is considered a fair estimate of the cost of lettuce production in Imperial valley to state that fully $50 an acre, or more than $1,500,000, will have been expended in growing the present lettuce crop by the time it is ready for the harvest, which is expected to exceed 10,000 carloads this season.

In addition to the lettuce acreage this fall, nearly 5000 acres of peas have been planted, with the earlier crops to start for market within a few days. Nearly 1200 acres of spinach and other greens also are being grown, with prospects for good demand.

Walnut Pruning Demonstrations Are Scheduled

A series of walnut pruning demonstrations will be held on November 12 to 13 by the agricultural extension service and walnut department of the farm bureau, co-operating.

The locations will be announced later. The best methods of handling trees following the peculiar season just closing will be discussed, according to a report just issued by the farm advisor's office.

PROBLEMS OF THE SOIL

Q. How and when should avocado seeds be planted, and when should seedlings be transplanted and budded?—S. B. R.

A. Seeds should be planted reasonably soon after being removed from the fruit. They should not be allowed to dry out and if care is observed in this respect they may be held for some weeks before planting. They may be planted individually in pots or in boxes in a mixture of sand and loam, half and half, or may be planted in nursery rows. In any event they must not be allowed to dry out, either before or after planting.

Avocado seeds should be just barely covered with earth, the pointed ends of the seeds set upwards. In the case of round seeds the end which has been towards the stem of the fruit should be uppermost.

The seedlings can be transplanted at any time after the sprouts appear. If planted at this time of year, they will be a foot or more high by April, when they can be transplanted from the seed bed to nursery rows or to the permanent places they are to occupy. Budding can be done in April or May, and again in July and up to October and November.

Q. Is it advisable to inoculate bitter clover and vetch seed with pure commercial or high-bred bacteria before planting? Can the soil suspension method of inoculation be used just as satisfactorily?—H. J. S.

A. Most cultivated soils in California now contain the nitrogen-fixing bacteria for vetch and melilotus, but occasionally it may be necessary to supply bacteria artificially. The seed certainly should be inoculated if bacteria are not present in the soil in which it is intended to plant.

There is no such thing as a special high bred culture, much of the advertising to the contrary notwithstanding. One commercial culture is as good as another, since all are derived from the same source. The same sort of bacteria are added to the soil in the use of so-called pure cultures. The soil suspension method is just as satisfactory, if inoculated soil is obtainable, as the use of commercial cultures and much cheaper if directions for using the latter are followed. Usually a certain amount of culture is recommended to be used to 1 acre or more, but as a matter of fact, according to Lip Gerrard and company, 50 times as much seed is used to make up the bacteria suspension.

Q. I am advised not to whitewash young avocado trees. Is it true that they will be injured if whitewashed? Give me a good formula for tree whitewash. Also advise me if this can be used on young peach and apple trees and if it can be depended upon to keep rabbits away.—S. M. D.

A. Whitewashing the trunks of avocado trees certainly will not injure them and may very possibly prevent winter sunburning. This burning often happens to the bark on the south and southwest sides of unprotected young trees, the injury usually occurring during hot days in late winter. Whitewash acts as a non-conductor of heat and keeps the inner bark cool.

A good tree whitewash may be made by shaking slowly five pounds of quicklime with water and adding one-half pound salt and one-quarter pound of sulphur while the mixture is boiling. Enough water is added to make a good wash. This whitewash is suitable for any kind of fruit trees, but is not especially suitable for repelling rabbits. Some growers have been able to protect young fruit trees by adding strychnine to the whitewash.

Q. I have quite a few olives this year and would like to know how to prepare them. I have been told they could not be sold if kept in salt.—Mrs. A. J. H.

A. Pickled ripe olives cannot be put up in tight containers and sold unless they have been sterilized by heat in accordance with the regulations of the state board of health. There is nothing wrong with the regulations forbidding the use of salt. Salt is a necessity in pickling olives.

Olives intended for pickling should be pink or red when picked. Do not wait until they are black. The process of pickling is as follows: (1) Dissolve 2 ounces of lye (Red Salt, Babbitts or similar brands) per gallon of water and cover fruit which has been placed in wooden barrel or a stone jar. Stir olives once an hour and examine at half hour intervals by cutting samples to determine how far lye has penetrated. When flesh is discolored about one-sixteenth inch from skin (from 3 to 5 hours) pour off and discard lye solution. (2) Let stand in pickling container for three or four days, stirring four times daily after filling container each time with water, (this to prevent bruising fruit) pouring off after stirring. Expose to the air this length of time will blacken the fruit. (3) Next dissolve 1½ ounces of lye to 9½ gallons of water, covering fruit with this solution. Leave this on fruit until lye has penetrated completely to the pits, stirring once each hour, and cutting samples occasionally to test penetration. This will take from six to 10 hours. (4) Discard lye solution and soak fruit in fresh water for about a week or until lye taste has disappeared, changing water two or three times daily. (5) Make brine solution by dissolving one pound of salt to four gallons of water. Place olives in this for three or four days, when they will be ready for use.

To store for any length of time in open containers, leave fruit in salt solution at strength as above outlined (one pound to four gallons), for a week. Then discard and add fresh solution made by dissolving two pounds of salt in four gallons of water. Leave 10 or 12 days and replace with another solution, using three pounds of salt in four gallons of water. Change to four gallons of water. After two weeks replace with a stronger brine, four pounds of salt to four gallons of water. Change to four gallons of water. Make this brine about once a month, making the solution the same strength. Keep fruit submerged and skim off mold occasionally. Soak olives in fresh water over night before using.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Radio is the farmer's Godsend, for it is destined to reorganize farm marketing processes and make the farmer a better business man.

Contact with farmers and study of their problems for many years lead Samuel R. Guard of this city to this conclusion. He's director of the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation.

"Current prices on grain and livestock broadcast to the farm world at the moment they are being made in the city markets has brought an entirely new element into farm marketing," says Guard. "Heretofore the farmer had to get his information on prices of farm products at least a day, and frequently two or three days late. With his radio tuned in on a station broadcasting quotations from the important market he knows the current price at the moment he is making his deal with the stock or grain buyer."

"If he ships direct, he knows the actual price on the market the day his stock is loaded into the car; he knows what the estimated receipts for the following day will be, and he can time his shipments to put his produce on the market when the prices are at their peak."

Whole Country Covered
In the Chicago territory station WLS broadcasts complete quotations on all farm produce. The southwest receives the same service over station WFAA of Dallas, while the south Atlantic states receive local, New York, Chicago and New Orleans market quotations from WSB, maintained by the Atlanta, Ga. Journal.

In addition, more than 100 stations are co-operating with the government in broadcasting farm prices and lectures.

The Chicago grain quotations are broadcast every half hour from the Board of Trade. Live stock quotations come direct from the Union Stock Yards, while prices of fruit and vegetables, butter and eggs and poultry are relayed from the commission markets to the studio.

Many Report Savings
In a survey of 500 farmers, WLS learned 405 stated they depended upon its information in shipping their goods to market, and 120 could give specific instances where it had saved them money. Their estimate of the savings varied from around $80 on a single deal, to $2800 saved on the season's wheat crop. One farmer estimated the value of his radio receiving set at $800 a year. The average estimated saving was $267.56 per year.

Only a small percentage of the farmers now own and use radios, according to Guard. But this is only a partial indication of the number who are availing themselves of the radio market news. Farmers' co-operative associations keep tuned in on morning markets and post them publicly.

A farmers' phone line in Illinois is hooked up to the radio receiver, and at 11 each morning the exchange tunes in and broadcasts the radio market quotations to all its patrons at once.

Fall Planting Has Advantages
Fall planting has the advantage of spring planting in that a heavier yield will be obtained in the first year, there will be less competition from grass and weeds before getting established, and the development of the deep root system will be stimulated. This is accomplished because irrigation may be delayed, in that the plants will be older before the first irrigation is necessary. If the water can be kept off without the plants drying, a more vigorous and longer lived stand will result. In addition, the shallow rooted grasses and weeds will not survive.

Spring planting should take place as early in the spring as possible after danger of frost is over and ground warmed up sufficiently to permit germination.

MOTTLE LEAF IS SCHOOL SUBJECT

By H. E. WAHLBERG
Farm Advisor

One of the outstanding citrus problems of today is the question of mottle leaf—its cause and control. Research men of the experimental station have been investigating the condition which baffled growers for several seasons. It has been variously attributed to irrigation practice, fertilizers, soil strata, organic matter and other phases of orchard management.

Investigations to date indicate quite conclusively that mottle leaf is evidence of a nutritional disorder or unbalance in the ratio of the soil nutrients absorbed by the through its feeder roots.

The observations so far indicate that calcium plays an important role in the problem, but it does not mean that the addition of lime will alleviate the trouble. Dr. A. R. C. Haas of the citrus experiment station has been secured to present this important matter to the growers of Orange county attending the citrus grower's extension school at Fullerton high school, November 15-20. This will be one of the outstanding lectures and reports.

RADIO IS BIG AID TO FARMER IN CROP SALES

Destined to Reorganize Marketing Processes Is Opinion of S. R. Guard

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Radio is the farmer's Godsend, for it is destined to reorganize farm marketing processes and make the farmer a better business man.

Contact with farmers and study of their problems for many years lead Samuel R. Guard of this city to this conclusion. He's director of the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation.

"Current prices on grain and livestock broadcast to the farm world at the moment they are being made in the city markets has brought an entirely new element into farm marketing," says Guard. "Heretofore the farmer had to get his information on prices of farm products at least a day, and frequently two or three days late. With his radio tuned in on a station broadcasting quotations from the important market he knows the current price at the moment he is making his deal with the stock or grain buyer."

"If he ships direct, he knows the actual price on the market the day his stock is loaded into the car; he knows what the estimated receipts for the following day will be, and he can time his shipments to put his produce on the market when the prices are at their peak."

Whole Country Covered
In the Chicago territory station WLS broadcasts complete quotations on all farm produce. The southwest receives the same service over station WFAA of Dallas, while the south Atlantic states receive local, New York, Chicago and New Orleans market quotations from WSB, maintained by the Atlanta, Ga. Journal.

In addition, more than 100 stations are co-operating with the government in broadcasting farm prices and lectures.

The Chicago grain quotations are broadcast every half hour from the Board of Trade. Live stock quotations come direct from the Union Stock Yards, while prices of fruit and vegetables, butter and eggs and poultry are relayed from the commission markets to the studio.

Many Report Savings
In a survey of 500 farmers, WLS learned 405 stated they depended upon its information in shipping their goods to market, and 120 could give specific instances where it had saved them money. Their estimate of the savings varied from around $80 on a single deal, to $2800 saved on the season's wheat crop. One farmer estimated the value of his radio receiving set at $800 a year. The average estimated saving was $267.56 per year.

Only a small percentage of the farmers now own and use radios, according to Guard. But this is only a partial indication of the number who are availing themselves of the radio market news. Farmers' co-operative associations keep tuned in on morning markets and post them publicly.

A farmers' phone line in Illinois is hooked up to the radio receiver, and at 11 each morning the exchange tunes in and broadcasts the radio market quotations to all its patrons at once.

TOMATO CROP HIT BY YELLOW BLIGHT

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 27.—Yellow blight is threatening the western tomato crop, especially in Utah.

Already in Dixie tomatoes largely have been destroyed, and the casualty has reached serious proportions in many of the important tomato sections elsewhere.

Last year thousands of acres in the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys, in California, were practically wiped out, and the total loss for that state the same year amounted to more than 80 per cent. Growers in certain areas in southern California lose a considerable proportion of their crop annually, so that in some districts tomato culture has become extremely difficult.

Oregon and Washington also sustain heavy losses, and the loss in Utah in 1924 was estimated to range from 30 to 35 per cent of the entire tomato crop.

So severe does the disease occur that it is not uncommon in certain years to count as high as 95 per cent of diseased plants before any of the plants in the field have matured fruit.

The cause of the blight is not yet known. It has been noted, however, that where evaporation is high and humidity low, blight is usually severe.

This is especially true of Utah, according to B. L. Richards, plant pathologist, Utah experiment station. He announces that during 1924 and 1925, when yellow blight was most destructive, low rainfall and high wind velocity were noticeably characteristic, producing a high rate of water evaporation or transpiration from the plant.

Observation also shows that the trouble is more severe on light, sandy, gravelly soils. Increase of the disease is also noted with the neglect of irrigation.

Further, areas exposed to direct sunshine show the disease in greater severity than shaded portions of the fields.

NEW STANFORD BACKFIELD TO OPPOSE U. S. C.

Post, Bogue, Hoffman And Hyland Said to Be Card Selections for Saturday

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 27.—A new Stanford backfield, faster and a shade heavier than that U. S. C. used last week will be sent in by Coach "Pop" Warner, Cardinal mentor, against the Trojans Saturday, according to observers here.

The reported combination is Eli Post, quarter; Dick Hyland and George Bogue, halves, and "Biff" Hoffman, full. It is faster on offense but not so well trained on defense, particularly breaking up passes.

A dozen huge search lights flooded the field last evening and a "ghost ball" was used. Warner sent his third stringers, using Trojan formations, against his regular team.

It was announced the entire squad of 48 men will go south tomorrow night. Fifteen thousand tickets have been sold in the northern section of the state for the game Saturday.

WHOSE STRATEGY IS MIGHTIER—HOWARD JONES'S OR GLENN WARNER'S

GLENN WARNER

Stanford, U. S. C. Elevens, Led by Noted Mentors, Tangle Saturday

By BILLY EVANS

What part does the coach play in football? We shall see when Stanford meets Southern California.

These two great elevens clash at Los Angeles Saturday and another football epic is sure to result. Regardless of the relative strength of the two elevens, a meeting between Stanford and Southern California always is worth while.

It will be a battle of wits between two master minds when Glenn Warner of Stanford pits his strategy against Howard Jones of Southern California.

With California, for years the outstanding eleven on the coast, in eclipse, the Stanford-Southern California game looms up as one of the choice football tidbits of the season.

Trojans Better On Paper
Southern California boasts one of its greatest teams. The experts on the coast favor it to win over Stanford, but Coach Glenn Warner has a habit of upsetting the odds. He has been doing it for years.

Last season Southern California was well liked over Stanford, but Warner's team came through with a 13-9 victory after a thrilling battle.

This year both Stanford and Southern California have what appear to be outstanding teams on the coast. It is no secret that Southern California has high hopes of winning the Pacific Coast title. However, the Oregon Aggies think otherwise, also Stanford.

Undoubtedly Warner will miss Ernie Nevers. A player of the caliber of Nevers cannot be dropped from the lineup without imposing a severe handicap.

Cards Miss Nevers

Nevers, you will recall, is the player Warner pronounced the greatest he ever coached, not excepting the illustrious Jim Thorpe.

Glenn Warner for years has been known for his strategy. It is a rarity for a big game to pass without having Warner spring something out of the ordinary. Most of the trick plays of football are credited to Warner.

Howard Jones, who won his greatest fame while coaching at the University of Iowa, is not far behind Warner as a strategist.

For that reason, the coming battle between Stanford and Southern California promises to be more than a contest between two great rivals. It will be a battle of wits between two of the game's leading coaches, Glenn Warner and Howard Jones.

Take your choice.
Pitcher Earl Whitehill of the Detroit Tigers says if all the American league clubs were as easy for him as the Yankees, he would guarantee to win 30 games every year.

Football Brevities

MADISON, Wis.—Defensive practice against every type of play that Wisconsin scouts have seen the Minnesota football team use this year, comprises the bulk of the work in the Badger camp this week. The offensive work of the line which has been of considerable annoyance to Coach Little, is showing improvement.

MINNEAPOLIS.—"Doc" Spears is concentrating on ways to improve the Minnesota kicking attack, all the educated toes have been busy during practices and this angle of the Gopher play is expected to show improvement when the team meets Wisconsin Saturday.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Once more misfortune has centered itself on the Notre Dame team. Elmer Wynne and Harry O'Boyle, Rockne's platoon fullbacks, will both be out for some time. Wynne, it developed today played a greater part of the Northwestern game with a dislocated shoulder.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Several shifts are expected to occur in the Indiana team before Northwestern comes here Saturday. The coaches are not quite satisfied with some of the work done in previous games and efforts are being made to remedy the weak places by a change in players.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Yale's varsity football team lay on top speed as the Eli coaches attempt to round the squad into shape for the Army game Saturday. The downfall at the hands of Brown has worried Tad Jones and severe practice is his medicine.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—The new elevens on the 1927 Harvard football schedule will include Vermont, Purdue and Indiana. The scheduling of the two big ten elevens will permit a comparison of eastern and western football strength.

YOUNG NATIONALISTA GIVEN DRAW WITH LA BARBA AFTER TAME 10-ROUND GO IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—Young Nationalista, Filipino battler, was the aggressor throughout in his meeting with Fidel La Barba, flyweight champion of the world, and was given a draw after ten rather tame rounds last night at the Olympic auditorium.

La Barba fought his usual fight, jabbing the Filipino with a left or right and then clinching. In the fourth the Filipino went to the floor when he stumbled and took a left to the chin at the same time. There was no count.

The Filipino had the flyweight champion bleeding at the mouth in the second round and in the sixth, which was Nationalista's best round, brought blood again.

The decision was a popular one with the crowd and with Nationalista, who lifted La Barba and paraded around the ring with him when the draw was called.

Roy Moore took four of six rounds and the referee's decision from Billie Vincent in the semifinal, while Frankie Tierney won from Eddie Gleason in the special when the latter weakened in the closing rounds.

CARROLL DELIVERS

I was mighty glad to see Owen Carroll have such a big season in the International League. His fine pitching for Toronto helped greatly in the winning of the pennant by Dan Howley.

It so happened I umpired the first two games in the American League in which Carroll, fresh from Holy Cross, worked.

The college sensation (he had won 48 out of 50 games) made his debut with Detroit in Boston. His appearance was well advertised, and one of the biggest crowds of the year saw him in action.

Carroll really pitched well enough to win, but his teammates, eager to see him go over, played far below standard. He was removed late in the game for a pinch hitter.

His next start was at Detroit on a Sunday and once again he packed the ball park. He failed to finish this game, being hit harder than in his debut.

Some of the critics began to refer to Carroll as an exploded phenomenon.

UMPIRE GOOD JUDGE

Perhaps no one is in a better position to judge a pitcher's worth than the umpire.

Carroll, despite the fact that he failed to finish either of his first two starts, being hit rather freely in both, impressed me.

I vouchsafed the opinion that he was a future big leaguer, despite his poor getaway. He showed me a fine curve, a pretty fair fast ball, a nice change of pace and proved to my satisfaction that he was smart.

Talking with me after his two reverses, he said:

"I find it is considerably different in the majors than the colleges. It is a wider span than I expected."

"The batters are, of course, much more dangerous. They wait the pitcher out, then pick on the cripple. The umpires don't give me as many strikes on my low curves as they did at college."

"Incidentally, the big league batters refuse to swing at it as did the college players. They took it for a ball."

HAD BIG SEASON

It has been proved that all Carroll needed was a little seasoning in the minors.

Sent to Manager Dan Howley of Toronto, a mighty good catcher in his day, also an excellent judge of pitchers, Carroll began to show improvement immediately.

All he needed was a chance to work in his regular turn to regain confidence in himself, something that he had lost through the rude manner in which the big leaguers hit his stuff.

Steve O'Neill, the veteran reliever, once with the Cleveland Indians, caught Carroll practically all season and did much to develop him into a really great pitcher.

He is sure to be a big help to the Detroit Tigers next summer. Carroll has the stuff.

DEBUT OF NEVERS

Major league veterans hate to admit that any college pitcher has the ability to step into the big show and get 'em down.

Ernie Nevers, former Stanford

ECONOMY FIRST IN MINDS OF MAJOR LEAGUE OWNERS
PREPARING FOR NEXT YEAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Appointment of "Donie" Bush as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates next season leaves only the St. Louis Browns and the Boston Red Sox without leaders. Unless some of the many former managers and prospective managers now out of jobs are in actual want, there may be no rush for either job. On the other hand, when a veteran of the type and character of "Stuffy" McGinnis can be trapped into a job of managing the Phillies, the Browns and Red Sox may not have to draft a successor to George Sisler and Lee Fohl.

Besides Sisler and Fohl, Arthur Fletcher and Bill McKechnie are out of work and there are some prospects in the minor leagues worth attention since Joe McCarthy, fresh from the minors, put the Chicago Cubs back into the running and made a money maker out of the club for the first time in years.

Economy is Watchword
With the exception of some of the richer clubs, economy is first in the mind of the major league club owners. After Bill Baker had given Fletcher the gate in Philadelphia he needed a manager and also a first baseman. So he tossed McGinnis into a trance, signed him to a contract and got both for one salary.

It wasn't for the purpose of saving some of his chewing gum millions that prompted William Wrigley to snatch McCarthy out of the minors and put him in charge of the Cubs. McCarthy had a reputation as manager in the American association.

Bush can't be rated as a busher. The former Detroit shortstop had extensive experience in the big time as a player and a brief career as a manager with the Washington Senators.

Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pirates, has always been kidded as a "nickel-nurse" and some say that he appointed Bush manager because he could get him cheap.

Need Two-Fisted Pilot
What the Pirates need most, however, Bush is said to have. There may have been smarter baseball men available for the job but the Pirates don't need a master mind. They need a Legree to handle the players and Bush has the reputation for being a two fisted boss.

Until a manager is announced for the Browns and the Red Sox, every candidate out of a job will be mentioned as a sure thing. Phil Ball, owner of the Browns, is taking his time about naming Sisler's successor.

It was first reported that Bill Killefer, who acted as Roger Hornsby's first lieutenant with the Cards last year, would switch over to the Browns. But that was denied and it was intimated that Bill's brother, Wade, from the Pacific Coast league was being considered.

The situation in Boston has been spared from a lot of rumors. Possibly because no one cares to speculate about misfortunes that might befall any poor fellow out of work.

It has been reported, however, that "Lefty" Liefield, who has been helping Lee Fohl, will get his former boss' job.

CATCHING IS WEAK
One of the principal reasons why Boston finished last in the American league this summer was due to the fact the club had the poorest catching in the majors. That will be Don Howley's—new manager of the Red Sox—greatest problem.

NEWMARKET, England, Oct. 27.—An American-owned horse, In-sight Second, belonging to A. C. Macomber, today won the Cambridgehire Stakes. Bulger was second and Asterus was third. Thirty-two horses ran. Today's was Macomber's second triumph in the Cambridgehire, his entry having won in 1925.

Clarke Quits
As Pirate
Club Official

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 27.—Fred Clarke, vice-president and director of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has resigned. A telegram from his home in Winfield, Kas., said the resignation has been mailed to Barney Dreyfuss, president of the club.

Clarke was generally credited with being the stormy petrel of the team in the 1926 campaign. An argument over his sitting on the players' bench during the games resulted in the dismissal of Carey, Bigbee and Adams and perhaps the loss of the pennant, which, in turn, was partly responsible for the dismissal last week of Bill McKechnie as manager.

TROJANS IN SECRET
PRACTICE FOR CARDS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—The gridders of the University of Southern California practiced behind locked gates yesterday.

Coach Howard Jones preparing something especially designed to embarrass "Pop" Warner's Cardinals when they appear here Saturday had Bovard field cleared of ambitious newspapermen and sympathetic Trojan followers after the squad had gone through its limbering up exercises and a "sham" scrimmage against the scrubs, the latter drilled with Stanford players.

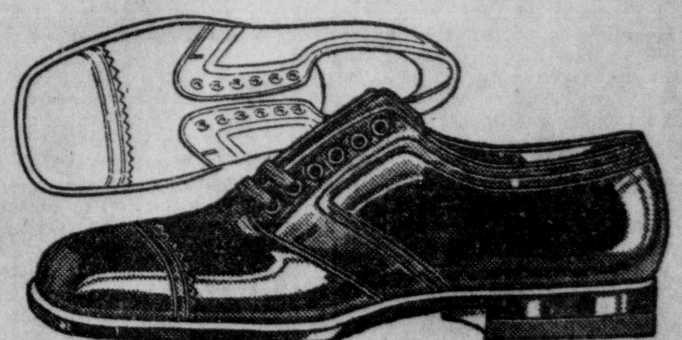

Coach Jones was considerably riled over an article which appeared in one of the local papers quoting him as having said that the "Thundering Herd" was two touchdowns better than the Cardinals team. Jones emphatically denied ever having made such a statement and said that he expected Saturday's game to be one of the toughest of the year.

Oliver Preps Team For South Pasadena

POLY VARSITY. SECOND STRING IN HARD TUFF

"Tex" Oliver, Santa Ana high school's football skipper, hails from south of the Mason and Dixon line and ordinarily he is a soft-spoken young man but he had his dander up yesterday afternoon and when a Southerner gets hot—look out!

Disgruntled at the showing his varsity was making against the so-called second string, Coach Oliver on sundry occasions called his players round him and in no uncertain terms laid down the "law of the gridiron" to them. His adjectives reminded the railbuds of some of the short but effective "speeches" which the colorful "Chuck" Winterburn utilized to "burn up" the drones here last fall.

"If you guys don't begin hitting somebody hard enough to hurt you aren't going to win a game this season," Oliver shouted. "How do you expect to get anywhere this way? We aren't playing tag football. Now I want you fellows to smack somebody on every play."

The varsity, or at least, most of the men who started against Whittier last Saturday donned red jerseys for a rough, tough scrimmage with the rest of the club. "Venus" Harvey, generally rated as the best of the Poly line smashers, was in the second backfield and he tore the first team's defense to shreds during one 60-yard march to a touchdown.

Jack Blakeney, first string end, is on the hospital list with a bad knee but he probably will be able to start against South Pasadena Friday at South Pasadena. Bob Balding, fullback, and John Casey, guard, are still ailing and neither will be able to play this week. Casey may be out for three weeks more.

BILLY EVANS Says

football and baseball star, who did very well for the St. Louis Browns last summer, had some very unusual experiences along this line.

Well do I recall the day he made his debut against the Philadelphia Athletics. I had to smile at the methods the A's used in an effort to destroy his poise.

Many remarks of this sort came from the bench:

"If this was football I would show you boys something. I am the great Evers."

"Never mind about any signals, just give me that old pigskin."

"Fourth down and five yards to go: hand that ball to me and I will make it."

"Now, boys, altogether, three 'rahs' for Evers."

However, the welcome accorded Evers didn't bother him in the least. He went about his work like a veteran.

PENN'S POWER

Pennsylvania apparently has quite a football team this year.

A few weeks ago, in this column, I related the opinion of a former All-America star, now coaching in the east. Here is the crux of what he told me:

"Penn has the best team in years, a strong line and a great backfield, led by Rogers and Vascolloni."

"I never saw anything more mystifying than the hidden-ball attack of the backfield. Sitting in the stands, it is practically impossible to detect the ball-carrier because of the antics of the rest of the team."

"It seems as if every man in the backfield has the ball tucked under his arm."

When the Chicago team, green but strong, met Penn the 'hidden-ball attack of the Philadelphia eleven had the Maroon team constantly upset.

All of which makes the Pennsylvania-Illinois game loom up as one of the choice grid morsels to be staged in the west.

WATCH MR. KOENIG

While Mark Koenig will have to bear up under the stigma of being the goat of the 1926 world series, I am inclined to think he will prove equal to it.

Koenig has remarkable natural ability. He has everything that goes to make a great shortstop except poise. If able to acquire that rather indefinable asset, he is going to wipe out his failure of 1926 at an early date.

Some of the game's greatest shortstops have shown a tendency to be erratic when breaking in.

The late Ray Chapman, one of the greatest shortstops, was decidedly so for several years. And Joe Sewell, his successor at Cleveland, equally brilliant, had many a wild and woolly day until he got settled.

Keep your eyes on Mark Koenig, who was unfortunate enough to make his errors at a costly time in the 1926 series. He will bear watching.

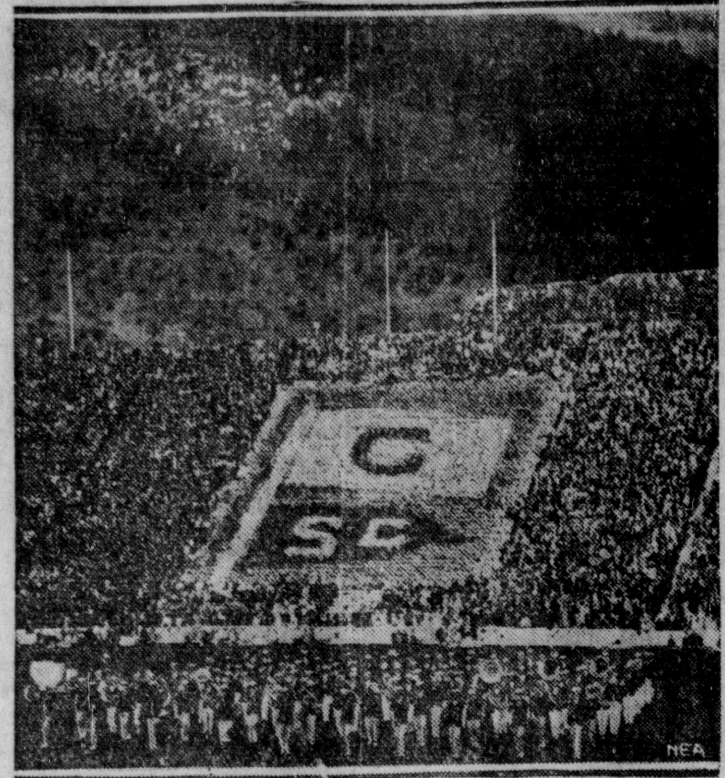

TRIP TO MINORS

Ken Williams, who vied with Babe Ruth for home run honors a few years back, is said to be slated for a trip to the minors, regardless of who manages the St. Louis Browns next season.

PRAISE FOR ROOKIE

George Stallings says that Shortstop Rothrock, who goes from Rochester to the Boston Red Sox, already is a big leaguer. Stallings, as you must know, is manager of the Rochester club.

WHEN TROJANS SERPENTINED

Perhaps you can't count 'em, but the University of Southern California's band, shown here in the University of California Memorial Stadium, preparing to serpentine after U. S. C. had beaten the U. C. eleven, 27 to 0, has 110 pieces. This unusual picture also shows one of the U. C. rooting section's stunts, two of the new bleachers which will extend around the eastern rim of the stadium to seat new thousands at the annual Stanford-California football classic, and "Tightwad Hill" behind the stadium, where $2 and field glasses will enable many more thousands to see the contest. Several hundred watching the U. S. C. game can be seen in this view.

CARD. TROJAN FROSH ELEVEN PLAY SATURDAY

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 27.—With a perfect record of five victories and no defeats behind them, Coach "Husky" Hunt's Stanford freshman gridgers enter their first important contest of the year, against the U.S.C. babes here Saturday, anxious to keep their slate clean.

The Trojan yearlings, with an unexpected victory over the California Cubs behind them, came north with a splendid record. They held the strong San Diego Marines to a 7-7 tie and were only defeated 13-10 by Loyola college. Loyola, incidentally, played Occidental college to a tie a few weeks ago.

Aubrey Devine, former All-American quarterback at Iowa, is coaching the young sons of Troy, and has developed a fast, hard charging line as well as a shifty backfield combination. Two former high school captains—Tappan of Los Angeles high and Stephenovitch of Inglewood are the U. S. C. frosh ends. Both are good defensive players and Stephenovitch is adept at snagging forward passes.

Van Vleet, of the Southern California championship Covina high school eleven last year, and Hoff, Huntington Park star, are the tackles. These boys both weigh over 185 pounds and each has had plenty of experience. Coyle, a former Los Angeles high school player, is the leading guard, but has been on the injured list for some time. He is expected to be in the lineup next Saturday, however. Anthony and Niedhardt will hold down the position on either side of center if Coyle is unable to play. Walker will be in the pivot place.

Kemp, quarterback; Wilcox and Saunders, halfbacks; and Edelson or Barrager, fullback; make up the best backfield combination.

The Cardinal frosh are not without stellar performers. In the line, they have Templeman, former Menlo player at center; Driscoll of Menlo and Hulen of Long Beach at guard; Forster of Los Angeles, Linley of Citrus and Burke at tackle; Bush of Stockton and Albertson of Los Angeles at end.

Hulen is the outstanding performer in the line. He is a stone wall on defense and a clever man at opening holes in the opposing line. Sickness has hindered Forster, who should be a great tackle, and now he has a broken leg which will probably keep him out for the rest of the season. Templeman's steadiness and good passing have made him invaluable. Burke, Linley, and Albertson are greatly improved players and Bush is fast and aggressive.

In the backfield, Heinicke of Orange, quarter; Frentrup of Berkeley and Murphy of Los Angeles, halves; and Hozdy of San Francisco and Simpkins of Redondo, fullbacks, have been the leading performers.

Heinicke is playing his first season in the backfield but has learned rapidly and is now very valuable. Frentrup is the triple threat as he can kick, run with the ball, and pass with good success. Murphy is not brilliant but hits hard and is a good defensive man. Simpkins' greatest asset is his defensive work.

NOTRE DAME IS OUTSTANDING ELEVEN OF MIDDLE WEST BUT FACES LONG, HARD SCHEDULE

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Middle western football teams have settled into the fifth week of the 1926 schedule today with early season favorites still resting at the top of the list, no startling upsets having occurred, and but one dark horse in view.

At present the one outstanding aggregation in this section is Notre Dame, which certainly seems destined to become the ranking team of the middle west. And if the team should go through the year undefeated, Rockne will have a good claim on national honors, in view of the stiff schedule he has mapped out.

The "Fighting Irish" are yet to meet Georgia Tech, Indiana, Army, Drake, Southern California, and Carnegie Tech. The team already holds wins over Minnesota, Penn State and Northwestern. Victories over one southern, one southwest-ern and three western conference, one far western and three eastern teams, would put Notre Dame in a good national championship light and these victories are looked for.

The other middle western favorites, Michigan and Northwestern, are still unscathed.

The Wolverines have two conference victories, having added one Saturday when they beat Illinois, 13 to 0.

Northwestern for the first time in years looms as a real conference championship possibility.

Michigan, with victories over Minnesota, rated third in the conference and Illinois still has a hard row to hoe.

CALLAHAN MAY GET MATCH WITH LATZO

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—Mushy Callahan may get a crack at Pete Latzo's welterweight crown if the Jewish newsboy defeats Joe Tip-litz when they meet at the Vernon arena Tuesday night, according to Mushy's manager, Eddie Sears.

Sears received a communication from Jess McMahon, of Madison Square Garden, New York, to the effect that should Mushy give Tip-litz a decisive trouncing he would be considered first to meet Latzo in the latter's next New York start.

The communication also stated that Tex Rickard would go before the New York Boxing commission some time this week and ask that they recognize Mushy as the junior welterweight champion of the world.

LATHROP TUFF WITH EMERSON TEAM SHIFTED

The football game, which was to have been played on the Julia C. Lathrop field tomorrow between the Emerson Junior high school of Pomona and the local Lathrop school, will be played at Pomona due to an agreement reached today between the two schools.

Coach Ferris Scott has been drilling his men on offensive work all week and the last four days there has been a gradual improvement.

A number of changes have been made in the line positions. Richards, a former tackle has been moved out to end while Faulkner is holding down his old tackle position after a two weeks' absence from the team. Fangle, a capable tackle, has been shifted to guard and a new player, Morales, is being given an opportunity to make good at tackle.

The backfield combination of Pratt, Stroup, Miller and Crumley, which has had its ups and downs all season is beginning to iron out some of the tough spots. The game Thursday, however, will be a real test of the team's strength as the Pomona school is reported as having a large and fast aggregation.

SUPPORT THE NOMINEES

The Register can see no reason why Republicans should fail to give their votes next Tuesday to the Republican nominees. Whatever differences there were before the primaries have been set aside. An example in that regard was set by the Republican state convention, held in Sacramento, at which all factions of the party entered into a compact for the support of C. C. Young, for governor; S. M. Shortridge, for U. S. senator, and Buron Fitts, for lieutenant-governor, and for the support of congressional nominees.

Orange county, as much as any county in the state, is dependent upon the maintenance of Republican protective tariff principles. It therefore is important that we give to the Republican nominees our hearty support.

The three party leaders have pledged themselves to support whatever measures come before them in behalf of sound Colorado river development legislation. Mr. Young, as soon as he goes into office, will see to it that the governor of California is given immediate representation in Washington with instructions to fight aggressively for the Swing-Johnson measure. Senator Shortridge is pledged to fight wholeheartedly for that measure. Buron Fitts' attitude is plainly and emphatically for the measure. And in the matter of all other national issues in which California may have any special interest, or in which its chief executive or his lieutenant may have any influence, California will be assured loyal and efficient representation by the election of Shortridge, Young and Fitts.

YES ON NO. 17, NO ON NO. 18

The Register today presents a discussion of two of the 28 proposals upon the ballot. These measures differ widely, yet each is of prime importance.

No. 17, in brief, permits, but does not require, the reading of the Bible in the public school. The measure safeguards against sectarian and denominational teaching; in fact, it prohibits it. Under this law, it will be possible to make use of the Bible for the teaching of precepts, for the teaching of literature and history. The daily study of the Bible is "permitted," but not made compulsory, and no pupil is required to read it or hear it if a parent or guardian objects.

This measure, we are sure, puts the Bible into the school in a spirit of fairness and with a view to extending its usefulness in character building. It makes the Bible available for every day usefulness unhampered by controversial matters.

Our vote will be positively yes.

The next measure on the ballot is No. 18, the familiar water and power act. Twice defeated, the proposal appears again in its old form. A state bond issue of $500,000,000 is authorized, this sum to be available under certain conditions for political subdivisions desiring to carry on development of municipally owned projects. Those favoring the measure say that cities have made a success of owning their water and power and they argue that the state can do the same thing. The opponents point out that under the measure the operation of the huge sum would be in the hands of a commission of only five men. That looks to us like an unwise provision. The measure appears to us to be too loosely drawn and too sweeping in character. We shall vote no.

PRIVATE AIR MAIL LINES

Postmaster General New is planning to turn over all the government air lines and ships to private operation. Uncle Sam is going out of the aviation business, except for military purposes. Soon the government will advertise for bids on the present air mail lines.

This does not mean at all that the government has lost faith in the air mail. That service, Mr. New explains, is to be continued and enlarged. But the task is to be turned over to private capital, not merely on the big, transcontinental air lines but on all the other lines.

"I do not believe," says the postmaster-general, "that any air mail service, except perhaps the night service between New York and Chicago, can ever be operated successfully from a financial standpoint if it must depend exclusively on mail for its revenue."

That is probably true. The government might have added passenger and freight service, but prefers to let private enterprise take care of them in the air as it does on land and water. That policy, whether wise or unwise in the long run, evidently agrees with present public sentiment in this country.

Who, then, will take hold of this great enterprise, apparently so risky in its nature and yet so important for the future development of the country and so challenging to a far-sighted captain of industry? It looks like a special opportunity for Henry Ford, who is already interested in aviation, has spent large sums in experimental building and is already pioneering in the air freight business.

FOURTEEN-YEAR-OLD FILMS

The best European films are said by discriminating critics to be better than the best American films. But the general run of our films is incomparably better than the general run of foreign films. This accounts for the popularity of American movies all over the world, and renders rather hopeless the efforts now being made by European producers to wean their public away from the American films.

Why have our films this world-wide appeal? For two reasons, it is explained. First, the typical American product is far superior technically to the typical foreign product. More money is spent on it, better machinery and scenery are used, technical tricks are played more skillfully, the commonplace is brightly enlivened. Second, as an American editor frankly explains, the average movie patron, the world over, is mentally about 14 years old, and that is the age to which our American producers adapt their entertainment.

Those few foreign films rated as better than our best are, needless to say, aimed at mentalities of more than 14 years. Granting that it is good business to play for the patronage of the adolescents and the older folk who never grow up, couldn't there be a few more film dramas in this country adapted to mature minds?

Situation Is Unlike Ours

San Francisco Chronicle

While we would resist to the utmost any attempt to apply to the tariff policy of the United States the plea of international bankers for the removal of European tariff walls, no one can deny that their complaint is valid in Europe.

Crossing the countries of post-war Europe is only a little different from crossing a range of California counties. Some of the countries are no bigger, some are actually smaller than California counties. And at every boundary is a tariff wall. In the main, there is no more economic justification for these barriers than there is for a tariff wall at every county line in this state. The hindrance to trade and industry is enormous. Think what it would be if every county in California were fenced off from every other by a tariff.

Think of the annoyance and handicap if trade on the Mississippi river had to pass through a custom house every time a boat passed the boundary of a state. Yet that is what happens on the Danube, which flows through or past Germany, Austria, Jugoslavia, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and Rumania. Customs houses every time a border is passed.

Before the war it was not so bad. But the break-up of the German, Austrian and Russian empires into a maze of little countries—the Balkanization of Europe—has created a condition almost intolerable. Europe is now a network of customs walls.

Many of these walls have no reason except antagonism between neighbors. They are only spite fences. In many cases they cut off the light of the builders as well as that of the hated neighbors.

There is no parallel between this condition in Europe and the policy of tariff protection in the United States. We maintain our tariff wall to protect our standards of living, uniform throughout our territory, from the competition of countries where standards of living are lower. That does not apply to the petty tariff barriers on the continent of Europe, where standards of living are pretty much on the same level in all the countries.

We maintain a tariff barrier to protect a territory which is the greater part of a continent. Europe, a much smaller continent, is criss-crossed with tariff walls, set up chiefly for political, not economic reasons.

The plea of the international bankers does not mention the United States. No one need have any fear that they intended it to apply to the United States. There is no application whatever to this country. If any one tries to twist it into an application we will resist.

Eugene V. Debs, Idealist

San Francisco Chronicle

Eugene V. Debs was an honest and kindly man. If he was wrong he at least was inspired with sincerity to be envied by many who are right. When society fought Debs it was for his methods, not his motives. He wanted to make the world a better place for the under dog to live in. And however we may disagree with his theories of social and industrial revolution, we cannot but recognize the gallantry with which he stood ready to make personal sacrifice for his ideals.

Misunderstood, perhaps most of all by his own followers, Debs shared the disappointments common to all idealists. His fiery philosophy translated into action sometimes brought results from which he was the first to recoil. For he loved humanity and hated cruelty and violence. He wished harm to none, not even to his most active enemies.

It was as an idealist and not as an enemy of his country that he advocated resistance to conscription during the war. And he was prosecuted under war measures by men who regretted their task yet dared not take the chance of the results Debs' example might bring.

Debs will be remembered as a perhaps misguided but certainly a staunch friend to humanity. And the quenching of his high spirit will be regretted no less by those who disagree with his philosophy than by his zealous followers.

Admiration for Hoover

Redlands Facts

Our admiration for Herbert Hoover grows. He always has something constructive under way. He is to the front now with a general plan for development of inland waterways, because present freight rates are burdensome upon the producing interests. If it should transpire that President Coolidge does not run to succeed himself, Hoover should be a strong contender for the place and he should certainly have the united support of the west. His stand on the Boulder dam enterprise stamps him as one of the big men of the land—if there was nothing else to do so—and there is much.

A DANGER OF MOTORING

Ever since motor cars became popular, and particularly in the period before self-starters, surgeons have seen a number of cases of what have become known in the slang of the profession as "back-fire" or "chaffeur's" fracture.

This fracture usually affects one of the bones of the lower arm near the wrist. In cranking a car, backfire may occur either on the downward swing or on the upward pull.

In a study of 42 cases of the fracture made by a British surgeon, he found that the likelihood of fracture is less with the backfire on the upward pull.

The handle tears itself from the grasp and, in case of backfire on the upward pull, only wrenches the tendons. There still is a possibility, however, that the handle, after performing a complete turn, may crash into the back of the arm.

In some cases the fracture occurs without the handle leaving the hand. In these instances it is due to a sudden jerk on the bone by the muscles and tendons which are attached to it. The person whose arm is broken seldom realizes just how the accident happens.

A surgeon who sees a patient in this condition usually makes sure by the X-ray that the bone is broken. He then tries to bring the broken edges into contact in the normal position, and, having placed them in that position, holds them there by means of a splint or in some instances with a plaster of Paris cast.

After the arm has been in a cast for a considerable period, the muscles will have lost their ability to move properly, and additional treatment is necessary to bring back the power of motion. It is customary to recommend massage, preferably done by an expert.

Massage is not undertaken until the healing has progressed far enough to prevent the likelihood of breaking the bone again by too much effort. It is customary to allow at least 18 days for proper healing before the masseur attempts any motion. Motion by the person himself is seldom attempted until after a somewhat longer period.

Leads In Quality of Roads

Redlands Facts

After an automobile trip extending over 10,000 miles from Club of Southern California, has returned convinced that California California to the Atlantic coast and return, including in its itinerary twenty-four states, E. E. East, chief engineer for the Automobile is still leading the nation in road building. This is particularly true. Mr. East emphasizes in his report, as regards riding qualities of pavements and the safety features which are now being embodied in the design and construction of state highways.

East said he was surprised to find on some of the principle transcontinental roads in the east grades that required second gear over long distances; sharp blind curves and innumerable sharp, vertical curves which completely obstructed the view of approaching vehicles—construction which would not be countenanced in California.

Bridge construction in many states, he says, is far below the standards of this state. Only on grade separations are the eastern states apparently making faster progress than is California, which of course, is due here largely to the lack of funds.

Quality, in recent years, has been the watchword of construction in California; standards of alignment and grade have been increased far beyond the plans of engineers a few years back; new pavements have a minimum width of twenty feet and vary in thickness from six to nine inches at the edges, with specially reinforcing where necessary. Width and strength of bridges also has been increased with the increasing standards of other features of the highway.

Low, low, breathe and blow,
Wind of the western sea!
Over the rolling water go,
Come from the dying moon and blow,
Blow him again to me,
While my little one, while my pretty one, sleeps.

Sleep and rest, sleep and rest,
Father will come to thee soon;
Rest, rest, on mother's breast,
Father will come to thee soon;
Father will come to his babe in the nest,

In the Long Ago

14 Years Ago Today From the Register Files

October 27, 1912

The total registration of voters is 17,439, almost double the registration of two years ago. The increase is due to the fact that this is the first year that women have voted in general elections.

The Rev. E. I. Inwood, newly appointed pastor of the First Methodist church, preached his first sermon in Santa Ana.

H. H. Reeves was elected president of the Santa Ana Farmers' club. Mrs. A. D. Bishop was elected secretary.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McFadden on October 23.

The following advertisement appeared in The Register: For sale—Five room bungalow, modern, at 519 East Washington avenue. Newly papered and painted. $15 per month. Apply 517 Wellington avenue.

Anti-tuberculosis day was observed with a symposium at the First Congregational church. Speakers were Dr. John Wehrly, Dr. Doyle, W. F. Menton and the Rev. M. Seccombe.

One Year Ago Today

Eighteen persons were killed and many injured by the derailment of a train near Victoria, Mass.

Measures on the Ballot

Under this heading, the Register presents information and arguments concerning various measures that are to be voted upon in the November election. Views expressed here may or may not be the views of the Register.

VOTE FOR GAS TAX, NOT FOR DIRECT TAX

San Bernardino Sun—Stripped of every extraneous feature and of every confusing detail, the two highway initiatives that are to be submitted to the voters of California at the coming November election can be reduced to exactly the proposal briefly stated in our headline—will we build more and better roads by means of an added gasoline tax, or by means of a direct tax upon all property which we will thus assent to? One of these initiatives—the gasoline tax—is No. 4 on the ballot, and is sponsored by the supervisors of the state and by many highway and commercial organizations. The other is No. 8, proposed, drafted and supported by the Automobile Club of Southern California, and in our view is wholly a Los Angeles project, born and bred. That might not in itself be sufficient reason for looking it over before accepting it.

We note that our evening associate, the Telegram, voices its support of No. 8, which proposes to make a direct appropriation of $5,000,000 a year from the state treasury, on certain specified roads grafted onto the constitution of the state, unchanged and unchangeable except by another vote of the people and to which specified list nothing may be added to and nothing taken from, regardless of changing conditions. The Sun cannot support such a provision. To begin with, it has no place in the constitution of the state. The selections and the improvement of state highways is a matter for the discretion of the state highway commission, and if San Bernardino county will but aid in the defeat of this No. 8, proposal, and aid in the adoption of No. 4—the gasoline tax, we will get present and other roads improved in record time. As a matter of fact, this county has little to complain of in the treatment it has received from the state highway commission.

The trouble with the Automobile Club of Southern California is that it sees everything through the eyes of Los Angeles. While it has many members outside that city, its control is wholly within and responsible to the commercial interests of Los Angeles, and when voters are confronted with figures attempting to prove that Southern California is getting the worst of it in the matter of highway construction, just make a note of the fact that it is Los Angeles scolding, and trying to raise a sectional cry to cover some not wholly unselfish designs.

At best, we have small sympathy with any scheme for improvement that tries to arbitrarily separate California into two districts, one set over against the other, as does this Auto club initiative. It is just as important to us in Southern California that a main highway or two of them be completed to the northern state boundary to connect with Oregon, as it is to the north that Central and Northern California that this be done. Conversely, it is just as important to San Francisco and the north that paved roads be constructed to the Arizona and Nevada borders to connect the California system with transcontinental highways from the east as it is to us. But away with this plan to segregate the state into two districts, two parts, two hostile sections. It's all California, and the Auto club's initiative fails to recognize that.

We have specific reasons for opposing No. 8, the Auto club's plan, and for supporting No. 4, which will probably be known as the gasoline tax plan. We object to No. 8 because it provides that for 12 years $5,000,000 a year be lifted out of the state treasury to be spent on certain highways that it specifies, but it provides no way of putting that money into the treasury. In other words, it would spend $5,000,000 a year without raising it or providing where it shall come from, and we think State Controller Riley will object to the statement that there will be no $5,000,000 a year to take out of the treasury unless it is raised from some new source, which would mean a plain invitation that a state property tax be levied on all the property in California.

We favor No. 4, the gasoline tax plan, because it provides that an additional one cent per gallon tax be levied on gasoline sold in California, the money to be used for new highway construction under the direction of the state highway commission, where authority ought to be lodged. We favor it because we believe it is just and fair that the highways should be paid for out of a tax levied directly on the people and the commercial interests that use them. That has been the consensus of highway authorities in California for years, excepting the Automobile club, whose controlling factors are not wholly dissociated from the oil interests of California. Supervisors have declared for it more than once, and the last state convention of supervisors did likewise. The highway advisory committee, appointed by authority of the legislature of 1923 and consisting of nine men selected from all part of California, was a unit on this matter, although not unanimous in others. Its report made this recommendation:

We recommend that the revenue for this construction program be derived from increased taxes upon the users of motor vehicles, either by increasing the plate tax, by a graduated weight tax, or by an increased tax on gasoline, or a combination of these forms of tax.

We recommend the selection of that form of taxation on motor vehicles which will be the most equitable and most acceptable to those who pay the tax.

We recommend that increases in motor vehicle revenue be made available entirely to the state for highway construction.

The last legislature also passed the bill providing for an additional one cent gasoline tax, only to have it vetoed by Governor Richardson, with the same influences at work that are largely responsible for this present initiative that would dodge the gasoline tax and pry $5,000,000 a year out of the state treasury for 12 years, with the probability that it must be made up by direct state tax, levied on all our property.

One thing seems to be reasonably certain: More money is to be provided for highway construction. The choice is between the gasoline tax and some general property tax. We favor the former because it is right in theory, because it is easily paid, because it is paid by the people and the commercial interests that use the highways, and let it not be forgotten that some part of this gasoline tax will be paid by tourists who come to California to use our highways.

SAYS SITUATION CRITICAL

To the Editors of Southern California: All Southern California is confronted with a crisis!

The coming election will decide if the north is to lift $30,000,000 out of our pockets for the $35,000,000 new highway program in the San Francisco bay district.

For your information, here is the scheme:

Selfish interests promoting the extra gasoline tax for new roads—amendment No. 4 on the ballot—are working to collect $125,000,000 in the next 12 years without a string to it. Briefly, it will be largely "political pie" for distribution to the faithful. You know how much Southern California will get out of that fund if it is left at the mercy of politicians.

In deadly fear that No. 8 on the ballot will carry (the state highway measure which allocates the funds to complete our present system of state highways), the northern interests are knifing this measure to the hilt in the north and calling upon voters there to kill it above all other considerations.

What are they doing down south? The same outfit that is killing No. 8 in the north is linking No. 4 with it in the south, urging voters here to support both measures.

The scheme is to add enough southern votes to the northern votes to get the gas tax amendment passed, and to kill No. 8 in the north.

What do you think of an outfit that supports a measure in one half of the state and knifes it in the other? Is this sectionalism or not?

Here is something to think about. Unless Southern California stands united for No. 8, and votes solidly against No. 4, we must stand by for years to come and watch northern politicians scatter our taxes at the whim of northern interests.

The cry of sectionalism, as used in the north against No. 8, is merely to camouflage the double dealing of politicians there, in knifing No. 8 in their own territory and using it as a tail for their kite in southern territory.

These statements are made as a result of my personal observations in the field. It is up to us to let the people know the situation, and to get out every favorable vote in Southern California.

Yours sincerely,

MORRIS M. RATHBUN.

Manager News Department, Automobile Club of Southern California.

FOR CEMETERY EXEMPTION

Dr. Rufus B. Von KleinSmid, president of the University of Southern California, announced his emphatic endorsement of proposition No. 25 appearing as one of the constitutional amendments on the November ballot to clarify existing laws to provide exemption from taxation for cemetery lots or mausoleum space purchased by individuals as the last earthly resting place for themselves or their relatives.

"As educators of the youth of the state our efforts are given to the maximum mental development and best qualities for citizenship," said Dr. Von KleinSmid. "The sentiment of family ties and the reverence of family memories should be encouraged to the utmost. In purchasing individual cemetery space for the use of ourselves and our families, we help to build up perpetual care funds that the last resting place of our loved ones may be forever maintained in the best of condition. If those perpetual care funds are to be called upon for heavy taxes and assessments, our cemeteries must necessarily become unkempt and uncared for. Apart from loss of landscape beauty which we would then experience, we should in my opinion, also lose much of that sentiment which is necessary in the character building of our youth."

Proposition No. 25 does not exempt from taxation the properties of cemetery companies which are offered for sale and profit, but only the individually owned portions of all cemeteries. It therefore, should be adopted by the voters of this state, as similar amendments have been adopted to the constitution of practically every other state in the union.
